Trouble Stalks 'New Endeavor'

London (AP) — A three-masted schooner — with a crew of 21 amateurs and a lone professional — sailed toward Australia Monday, hoping to retrace Capt. James Cook's voyage of 177 years ago.

Among the amateur sailors were three women: Mrs. Jean Dixon, 46, an Englishwoman; Mrs. Lenore Tardiff, 25, and Sybil Burns 27, both Australians.

Capt. Gordon Keeble 41, a former Royal Navy officer, was the one experienced sailor. The sailing ship is called New Endeavor after Capt. Cook's original Endeavor.

Crew Pays — Members of the crew paid about 400 pounds ($1,120) each to make the journey, which the commander estimated will take five to six months.

Owned by an Australian company, the New Endeavor is expected to be used for tourist trips to the great barrier reef and following Capt. Cook's route to Sydney.

There are, of course, big differences between the journey of the New Endeavor and the old. The schooner will short cut Cape Horn by going through the Panama Canal. The New Endeavor also packs an engine.

After covering 5 of the 20,000 miles to Botany Bay Monday, the engine overheated. Driven by the tide, the New Endeavor drifted dangerously toward the Goodwin Sands, graveyard of many a ship.

Up went a signal — a flag with a red cross. Coast guards at Deal were mystified, for the flag in the international sea code meant "we have a doctor on board."

Seasickness Strikes — By this time most of the amateur crew was seasick. The adventurers hauled down the first flag and sent up another. The new signal meant: "Keep clear, out of control."

With that the coast guards put out a rescue boat. At last the trouble was corrected and the ship headed down the channel.

It was on May 25, 1768, that Capt. Cook set out in the Endeavor. On April 13, 1769, he reached Tahiti, then the Society Islands and New Zealand. Botany Bay was sighted April 28, 1770.

NEBRASKANS TOLD . . .

Rural America Strength Of U.S.

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER
Editor, The Lincoln Star

Washington—Vice President Hubert Humphrey and a parade of administration cabinet members have pinpointed federal programs for use in development of Nebraska in meeting with some 55 citizens of the Cornhusker State here.

The Nebraskans come from the state's First Congressional District and are attending the unique development conference sponsored by Rep. Clair Callan.

Humphrey warned the group "that some people care more about the dark side of the moon than they do about rural America." But it is rural America — the 5 million family farms and 5 million small businesses there—that is the strength of this nation, he said.

Partnership

It is the objective of the federal government, he said, to help strengthen the local areas of the nation. The federal government, he said, is in partnership with the state and local governments across the land.

How this partnership should work was explained by a host of cabinet officials. The Nebraskans were warned by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman that the farming interests of the nation "don't have much muscle left" in Congress. Opposition to the administration's omnibus farm bill by the "bread trust," said Freeman, has been "a most unreasonable, unfortunate and selfish attitude."

Other activities included visits by various Nebraska groups to administration offices in Washington. Representatives of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce presented to the Federal Bureau of Roads that organizations plan for the north-south interstate route along the line of Highway 77.

Discuss Base — The Chamber group also visited the Area Redevelopment Administration and the Department of Defense in connection with phasing out operations of the Lincoln Air Force Base. The group also called on the Health, Education and Welfare Department to discuss the proposed location of a new water pollution control laboratory.

Tuesday activities will include breakfast by the group with the state's congressional delegation and further briefings from administrative officers of the government.

Limit Of 30 — Union president George Engler explained that the contract limits the reclassification to a maximum of 30 employees. Also there will be no reclassification for 90 days and no individual will be set back more than two grades.

Top wage under the plan will be $2.39 the first year and $2.53 after three years. The starting wage will go to $1.74 now and $1.88 after the three years.

The president said all 144 strikers are being asked to return Tuesday. However, it is anticipated that a dozen or so may have taken employment elsewhere and will not be available.

Barely Missed — A similar proposal had been before the union last week and reportedly missed approval by only a handful of votes.

A 12-hour bargaining session had followed between Store Kraft officials and the strikers' committee.

Police said the boy told them he saw a man in an alley downtown hide a paper sack several days ago. The boy said he went back a few days later to see what was in the sack and found the camera and several other articles.

Police said that the boy, who has been in trouble in the past, deserved special applause for being so honest about bringing the camera to the police station.

Argument Fatal — Caserta, Italy (AP) — Police said Diamante Audi, 36, was fatally shot in an argument over the abilities of various Italian soccer players. Authorities started a hunt for one of the men they said was involved in the argument in Castel Campagnano, a village near this southern Italian city.

While the cost of bread has doubled in 20 years, the secretary noted, the farmers' share of this has been only one-half cent a loaf.

$4 Billion A Year

The proposed bill, he outlined, would mean $4 billion a year in farm income, a $3 million-a-year reduction in price support costs to taxpayers and a 40-million acre expansion of conservation and recreation practices.

The need "to close the opportunity gap between rural and urban areas" was noted by Howard Bertsch of the Farmers Home Administration. He warned that while only one-third of the nation's people live in rural America, one-half of the nation's poverty is found there.

Bertsch outlined FHA loan and grant programs available to the states.

Nebraska was praised by Don Williams of the Soil Conservation Service. It is hard to find a state going more enthusiastically toward strong oil and water conservation programs than Nebraska, he said.

Firemen Receive Tentative Hike In Clothing Allowance

. . . BUT BOOST SHORT OF PROPOSAL

By BOB SCHIREPF
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln firemen received tentative approval for a boost in clothing allowances by the City Council Monday after presenting a comprehensive but belated wages and benefits proposal.

The council followed the recommendation of the Personnel Board in granting the $4,000 clothing allowance increase. Broken down, the increase will mean that effective Sept. 1, new firefighters will receive a cash allowance of $50 upon their completion of a 6 months probationary period and an increase of $5 to $6 in their monthly allowance.

All other firefighters who are required to maintain uniforms and firefighting equipment will receive $72 per year instead of the present $60.

Thus approval fell far short of a wages and benefits proposal advocated by Lincoln Firefighters Association, Local 644, which included:

—An increase in clothing allowance from $5 to $10 per month.

—A time off or payment provision for time spent working a second or third alarm fire or other types of recall to duty.

Starting Wages

—Starting wages of $400 per month for first year men and all new men.

—A wage increase for first class firemen, officers and shop personnel. The local argued that a wage increase would combat a turn-over problem and the retirement of experienced personnel.

Also asked for was a "demerit system" to be implemented with the wage increase proposal.

Big Addition

The proposal would have added $77,016.66, plus $4,000 for the retirement fund, to Fire Chief Roscoe Benton's 1965-66 salary budget of $1,068,171.

Stanley Sobotka, vice president of the firefighters association, told the council that the existing merit system "is not a sound solution. A man doesn't get a raise for doing his job."

Councilman John Comstock and other members replied that a merit system in effect means operating on an automatic raise system.

Simply Underpaid — However, the firemen argued that, "Lincoln firefighters are simply underpaid."

"Lincoln definitely needs an incentive pay system, but before that the city needs to get its pay system up to regional standards," said first class fireman Fred Soffin Jr.

The firefighters supplied the council with figures showing Lincoln to be substantially behind other regional cities in starting and maximum wages.

Cut Efficiency — The firemen said that to continue the present pay scale and merit system could result in decreased efficiency and rapid turnover.

Walter Mitchell, city personnel director, told the council that of the 159 firemen eligible, 84% have been recommended for a merit pay increase during the next fiscal year, as compared to an average of 55% in other city departments.

He also noted an increase in promotions in the department, and noted that "right now the pay plan is generally in line."

"I think Benton is being quite liberal," Mitchell said. (For more stories on the city council meeting see page 5.)

Car-Cycle Crash Kills 9-Year-Old

Ewing (UPI) — Stephen Tomjack, 9, Ewing was killed Monday when he swerved his bicycle into the path of a car on a bridge over the Elkhorn River near here.

Officers said Stephen, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Tomjack, was eastbound on his bike, riding on the left side as recommended.

Approaching also eastbound on U.S. 275 was a car driven by Anthony J. Ferraro of Cleveland, Ohio, and a west-bound pickup truck, driven by Dwight Hoffman of Clearwater.

Hoffman told investigators he sighted the boy and stopped, but that young Tomjack then crossed to the other side into the path of Ferraro's car, which struck him.

Despite Hanoi's Rejection

. . . RUSK TALKS

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk suggested Monday that officers of the United Nations could explore privately the possibilities of a Viet Nam settlement despite the latest North Vietnamese rejection of a formal U.N. role there.

And there is yet a possibility for a "formal action" by the United Nations, Rusk told a news conference.

Response

His remarks were in response to a request for comment on the reported statement by North Vietnamese Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach, that the United Nations cannot use its influence to bring about negotiations.

Rusk said the United States would give full support to whatever the world organization can do in Viet Nam.

The peace in the Viet Nam, Rusk continued, "rests with Hanoi." American forces, he said, would not be in Viet Nam at all had it not been for the North Vietnamese attempts since 1959 to infiltrate and take over South Viet Nam.

Rusk pledged that the United States will "prevent, defeat, and stop" this infiltration.

Glad To Use Words — The United States, he added, would be "glad to accomplish this through words and not through bombs," but if peaceful means are not available then it will be accomplished by war, he declared.

Asked to comment on the suggestion, jointly made by Yugoslavia's President Tito and Indian Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, that the United States suspend bombing of North Viet Nam, Rusk reminded that the air raids were once suspended for a brief period, but "we got a harsh reaction."

Rusk said, "Nobody is able to tell us what would happen . . . Would the North Vietnamese go home?"

Logistics Watchdog Group Set

Washington (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara Monday ordered a 10-man task force formed to serve as a watchdog on expediting supplies to the augmented U.S. forces in Viet Nam.

He said the group of logistics experts, to be headed by a brigadier general, is being created "to prevent obstacles or bottlenecks due to rapid expansion of the deliveries of equipment and supplies to Viet Nam."

Sol Horowitz, assistant secretary of defense for administration, in explaining the announcement to newsmen, insisted there are "no deficiencies" now in equipment and supplies in Viet Nam. He said the new order was to prevent that from happening.

The denial that any shortages now exist was in answer to a question about a statement by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate preparedness subcommittee. Stennis said a study has shown that the Army has permitted shortages in stocks outside Viet Nam to develop as a result of shipments to that country. He mentioned trucks, weapons and spare parts as examples of items in short supply.

3-Month-Old Store Kraft Tieup Ends In Beatrice; Pact Okayed

Beatrice — Exactly three months after their May 3 walkout at Store Kraft Manufacturing Co., the members of Milmen's Local 832 AFL-CIO have voted to report back to work Tuesday.

The decision came following a meeting of more than two hours Monday night and on a workers' vote of 72 to 54 to accept a proffered company contract. The proposal, the company's eighth, with some amendments, offers a 23-cent per hour wage increase over the next three years.

As outlined, the contract will award a nine-cent hike the first year and seven cents each of the two years following. Also included in a re-

Limit Of 30 — Union president George Engler explained that the contract limits the reclassification to a maximum of 30 employees. Also there will be no reclassification for 90 days and no individual will be set back more than two grades.

Union president George Engler explained that the contract limits the reclassification to a maximum of 30 employees. Also there will be no reclassification for 90 days and no individual will be set back more than two grades.

Top wage under the plan will be $2.39 the first year and $2.53 after three years. The starting wage will go to $1.74 now and $1.88 after the three years.

The president said all 144 strikers are being asked to return Tuesday. However, it is anticipated that a dozen or so may have taken employment elsewhere and will not be available.

Barely Missed
A similar proposal had been before the union last week and reportedly missed approval by only a handful of votes.

A 12-hour bargaining session had followed between Store Kraft officials and the strikers' committee.

Army Reserve Training, Power To Be Boosted

Washington (AP)—Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance disclosed plans Monday to speed up training and increase combat power of certain Army reserve units in case "a callup of reserves should become necessary."

"We propose to take special measures to raise the readiness of three reserve divisions, six independent brigades and selected combat and support units," Vance told a House armed services subcommittee.

Vance did not identify the units and a Pentagon spokesman said no final selection has been made. Vance told newsmen the idea is to pick them from the proposed re-alignment of the reserves to be brought about by a merger

B52 Fleet Strikes Possible Red Base

Saigon, Viet Nam (AP)—A fleet of 30 U.S. B52 jet bombers sought Monday to destroy a suspected Viet Cong base near the Doha, a mist-shrouded area in the central highlands between government centers at Kontum and Da Nang.

A U.S. spokesman said the eight-engine Strategic Air Command (SAC) craft, flying from Guam, dumped 500 tons of bombs on "Viet Cong installations in Quang Tin province, approximately 350 miles north-northeast of Saigon."

Air attacks north of the border included strikes at the Thanh Hoa railroad bridge, 80 miles south of Hanoi, and two strings of barges 10 miles farther south.

North Vietnamese gunners shot down a U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchief on the Thanh Hoa mission. The pilot was seen to parachute successfully, newsmen were told, but efforts to rescue him failed and he was listed as missing.

Radio Hanoi declared four of the raiders were downed.

In the ground war, U.S. Marines and Vietnamese troops teamed up for an attack that overran the Communist-dominated village of Chan Son, 10 miles south of the Da Nang Air Base.

They killed 25 persons — among them from three to five noncombatants who had failed to heed a loudspeaker warning to leave—and captured 80 men suspected of serving as guerrillas.

Viet Cong ground fire downed three U.S. Army helicopters involved in the operation, but a spokesman said there were no casualties among the American or Vietnamese troops. Together the Marines and the Vietnamese made up about a regiment—perhaps 1,500 men.

Farther south, government forces were on the move in two sectors. A spokesman said they killed 20 Viet Cong in Quang Ngai province, 330 miles northeast of Saigon, and 17 in Binh Thuan province, 95 miles northeast of this city. Government casualties in both cases were described as light.

U.S. and Vietnamese planes flew more missions against suspected Viet Cong concentrations and there was a body count on the result of one raid, by two B57 Canberras. Ground forces said the Canberras killed 60 guerrillas.

Viet Cong bands staged a flurry of attacks on outposts in Long An province, south of Saigon, and in one case inflicted extensive casualties on a platoon of government troops.

These were among 26 Viet Cong actions, mostly mortar harassment, reported in the Saigon area over a 48-hour period.

Reapportionment Test Voting Wednesday

Washington (AP)—The Senate agreed Monday to some test voting Wednesday on a hotly disputed constitutional amendment on legislative reapportionment, but opponents kept the door ajar for a possible filibuster before a final showdown.

In some intricate parliamentary footwork, unanimous consent was obtained for a series of preliminary votes in which the issues will be decided by simple majorities. But opponents reserved the right to canvass the situation before the final decision which requires a two-thirds majority.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, chief sponsor of the amendment, agreed reluctantly to the procedures but insisted:

"I want a final vote on this matter and I intend to get it."

And he served notice that until he gets it he will do all he can to bring the Senate to a standstill on other legislation.

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., heading the opposition, said his side is willing to vote on Dirksen's proposed amendment as it now stands but if it is changed in any respect opponents reserve the right to reassess the matter and decide whether to undertake "discussion in depth"—a polite way of describing a filibuster aimed at blocking a vote.

Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., heading the opposition, said his side is willing to vote on Dirksen's proposed amendment as it now stands but if it is changed in any respect opponents reserve the right to reassess the matter and decide whether to undertake "discussion in depth"—a polite way of describing a filibuster aimed at blocking a vote.

Confidence Vote Won By Labor

London (AP)—The Labor government won a House of Commons confidence vote Monday night in angry confrontation between Prime Minister Wilson and the new Conservative leader, Edward Heath.

By a margin of 13 votes, Wilson's Laborites defeated a motion introduced by Heath expressing no confidence in the government and deploring Wilson's handling of the nation's affairs.

of Army reserve units into the National Guard.

Difficult Time

The merger has had a difficult time in Congress. But the deputy secretary urged that the committee quickly approve the disputed proposal and said the Pentagon doesn't agree with suggestions the merger be put off because of the Viet Nam situation.

He said: "The secretary and the chief of staff of the Army have reviewed again the desirability of going ahead with the proposed reorganization in the light of the recent decisions with respect to Viet Nam. They strongly recommended that the re-alignment plan—designed, as it is, to increase usable forces and improve their readiness—not only be implemented but be implemented as soon as possible."

Vance indicated strongly to newsmen that he hopes Congress will approve the merger soon enough so there will be no delay in carrying out the plan to increase the combat power of the three divisions, six brigades and the other units.

The plans are to begin work on these units in September when their authorized strength will be increased to 100% as compared to the 70% to 80% now authorized.

Drill Increase

The units weekly drills would be increased by 50% so they would have six drills a month instead of four and, Vance added, "Consideration is being given to advancing their field training instead of waiting until next summer."

While Vance plugged for the Army reserve merger he told the subcommittee that the plan to merge air reserve forces into the National Guard is being scrapped temporarily. Vance said the department is withdrawing "the proposed legislation in so far as it relates to the Air Force."

But subcommittee Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., didn't go along with that idea. "This is going to be a package deal. The Army is going to be in it. The Air Force is going to be in it... we are going to resolve this, crisis or no crisis."

Cold Calls Off Climb

Georgetown, Colo. (AP)—A Wisconsin man and his wife, both in their 70s, have given up a Colorado mountain climbing expedition for the summer because of cold weather, but left the state Monday with a promise to come back next year.

H. Russell Briggs, 72, and his wife, who is 77, want to scale 14,000-foot-high Mount of the Holy Cross, which lies about 150 miles west of Denver and about 100 miles by road west of Georgetown.

It is the only 14,000-foot peak in Colorado they haven't climbed since they were married 45 years ago, they explained before looking over prospects for the ascent. They thought they had scaled all of the 14,000-foot mountains, but a recent U.S. Geological Survey finding was that the Mount of the Holy Cross is higher than the 13,991 feet above sea level originally calculated.

Strikes' Purpose Not To Feel Out Chinese

Honolulu (AP)—America's top military chief declared Monday that U.S. air strikes reaching within 35 miles of Communist China's border definitely were not intended to test Red Chinese reaction.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, Joint Chiefs of Staff chairman, arrived by jet plane from Washington for a strategy conference on deploying 50,000 more American troops in Viet Nam.

President Johnson announced last week the decision to boost U.S. forces there from 75,000 to 125,000 men.

Far From It

Newsmen meeting Wheeler at Hickam Air Force Base asked if feeling out Red Chinese response was a purpose in weekend U.S. air attacks on Red River bridges in North Viet Nam. The air strike was the closest to the China boundary yet reported.

"Oh, no. Far from it," Wheeler responded firmly. "We were merely carrying out our program in North Viet Nam," he said. "It should not be construed as trying to test Red China policy."

Wheeler went into conference with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, head of the U.S. military forces in Viet Nam, and Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp Jr., the Pacific military commander.

"We will be discussing the problems in implementing the President's decision of last week," Wheeler told the air field news conference.

Not Overnight

Sharp said the manpower buildup of 50,000 men could not be expected to be accomplished overnight.

Westmoreland said he couldn't give a definitive answer on how long it will take to move 50,000 more fighting men into Viet Nam.

"But the buildup will move along rapidly," Westmoreland said. "That's one of the purposes of this conference."

Sharp said another decision will be made on the assigning of aircraft necessary for the boost in U.S. troops.

Wheeler said the 50,000-man increase in American strength certainly will help operations in Viet Nam.

Negro Voters Get New Literacy Test

Greensboro, Ala. (AP)—Negroes renewed their voter registration drive in Hale County Monday with a simplified literacy test and a promise of a speeded up system to process applications.

Alabama's chief voter registration specialist, Mrs. Martha Witt Smith, was in Greensboro to help the board with the newly adopted literacy test.

Approximately 100 Negroes were waiting at the courthouse when the three-member board went to work.

The new literacy test was adopted by the state supreme court July 22 to replace the more difficult series of questions under attack in federal court.

First Time

The simplified new test was used for the first time Monday in Greensboro and in other counties throughout the state.

The test consists of five sections of the U.S. Constitution which the prospective voter is required to copy in longhand. From his handwritten copy, he is asked one question about each section of the Constitution. If he answers three of five questions correctly, he makes a passing grade.

Here is an example.

"All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in the Congress of the United States which shall consist of a Senate and a House of Representatives."

Question

Question: "Congress is composed of two bodies—the House of Representatives and the —"

The board had 100 different tests, each one containing five sections of the Constitution and five questions. The applicant chooses his particular test by opening a book at random.

The registration board also put into effect for the first time a numbering system on a first-come, first-serve basis. Each applicant's number is good indefinitely and if he is

Flying Objects Spotted By Many In Five States

... Observed Over Sidney, Grand Island, Broken Bow

Oklahoma City, Okla. — Authorities in portions of Nebraska, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas were deluged Sunday night and early Monday by reports of unidentified flying objects (UFO).

The Sedgewick County Sheriff's office at Wichita, Kan., said the Weather Bureau tracked "several of them at altitudes of 6,000 to 9,000 feet."

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said Tinker Air Force Base here was tracking as many as four of the unidentified flying objects on its radar screen at one time, estimating their altitude at about 22,000 feet.

A Tinker spokesman refused to confirm or deny the radar observations.

"The reported sightings will be investigated by Air Force personnel," said information officer Lt. John Walmsley.

Reports of the UFO's came from Sidney, Grand Island, and Broken Bow, Neb.; Pecos, Monahans, Odessa, Midland, Fort Worth, Canyon and Dalhart, Tex.; Chickasha, Shawnee, Cushing, Buymon and Chandler, Okla.; Oxford, Belle Plaine, Winfield, Caldwell, Mulvane and Wichita, Kan.; and from Hobbs, Carlsbad and Artesia, N.M.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said police officers in three different patrol cars reported watching the objects fly in a diamond-shaped formation for about 30 minutes in the Shawnee area. The patrol said the officers described the objects as changing in color from red to white to blue-green.

A dispatcher for the Sedgewick County Kansas sheriff's office said "I was a disbeliever, but I saw something up there and so did other observers at the Weather Bureau and the Air Force base (McConnell)."

Police Officer Edward Roberts of Caldwell told radio station KFH at Wichita in a tape recorded interview that he and two other persons sighted one of the objects east of the Caldwell airport.

In the interview, Roberts said "we stood on top of the car you could see (the object) with the naked eye. It looked like it was on the ground or hovering just above the ground. It was red, greenish blue and yellowish white. About 100 yards long. I would estimate we were about five miles from it."

At 3:40 a.m. the Wichita Weather Bureau said it had tracked one of the objects south and west of Wellington. The bureau said it first showed up on their radar at an altitude of about 22,000 feet and had descended to 4,000 feet.

Descriptions phoned to police and other authorities included:

"They were red and exploded in a shower of sparks and at other times fluttered like a leaf" in the clear sky.

Deputy Sheriff Dancarter of Canyon, Tex., said he "thought at first a plane had exploded in the air. The object appeared to go south," he said "then disintegrated in all colors."

Spokesmen at Tinker and McConnell Air Force bases are referring all queries to the Air Force in Washington.

In the past, the Air Force has said the sightings have turned out to be such things as balloons, birds, search lights, jet exhaust, kites, meteors, missiles.

As of July 20, the Air Force had checked 9,127 sightings since 1947 with 667 still unidentified and said that its investigations had turned up no evidence to indicate the objects come from space.

At a meeting of the group established a statewide operational arm to be known as the Fort Robinson Volunteer Cavalry Dr. William Hall, director of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism, has named recruiting officers to organize each county in the state at the rate of $2 per membership.

Resolutions adopted spelled out these objectives in use of the fort, which now houses a U.S. Department of Agriculture Beef Research Station as well as historical and tourist facilities.

Beef research center activity should be confined to the minimum requirements of current research.

No new projects or expansion should be undertaken that will interfere with historical and recreational facilities and natural resources now in existence.

Lease by the USDA to the Nebraska Game, Parks and Forestation Commission of the parade grounds including the flagstaff, the wooded streamside area on Soldier Creek from U.S. Highway 20 to the stream's confluence with the White River, consisting of about 20 acres, other accesses to favorable campsites along the White River, sufficient ground east of U.S. 20 and north of the present public cabin area for immediate planning and construction of a swimming pool.

Macy — Vernon Miller, 26, Macy, father of six, was killed when a car ran over him as he lay across a private drive to a Macy home, Thurston County Sheriff Harold Obermeyer said.

The drive was "little more than a lane overgrown with weeds at the entrance," he added.

Obermeyer said the car was driven by Christine Mitchell, 24, of Macy and was carrying five passengers when it hit the victim. The sheriff said they first thought they had struck a dog, but when they returned down the lane about 20 minutes later they saw the body.

40 Per Cent Of Sorghum Crop Headed

Nearly three-fourths of Nebraska's corn crop has tasseled, and around 30% of the sorghum crop has headed government crop observers reported Monday.

Sorghum has shown good to excellent development although weeds are a problem, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Corn crop progress is ahead of normal but some corn root worm and corn borer damage has occurred.

Other crop report observations: Soybeans have been making good development. Plants are blooming and beginning to set pods.

Moisture Adequate
Some areas, especially in the Upper Platte Valley, need sunshine and warm weather to help bring row crops to maturity. Soil moisture reserves generally are adequate.

Harvest of winter wheat is now 96% completed. Normally the harvest has been completed by this date. Rain and damp weather have held up progress in the Panhandle and the crop is only 70% cut in that area. Quality of wheat and test weights have been lowered somewhat by rain.

The oats harvest is 85% completed, with many high yields reported.

Livestock feed supplies remain adequate to abundant.

Rainfall received throughout the state during the past week included:

Grand Island 33.30
Lincoln 30.00
Central 30.00
North Platte 37.00
Chadron 37.00
Scottsbluff 37.00

Moisture over the state since the beginning of the growing season, April 1, as compared to long-time averages includes:

Northwest - 14.57 inches (1965), 9.66 inches (normal)
North Central - 13.57, 11.24
Northeast - 14.88, 13.02
Central - 14.76, 12.41
East Central - 20.65, 13.68
Southeast - 15.26, 10.38
South Central - 21.08, 12.23

Flying Objects Spotted By Many In Five States

... Observed Over Sidney, Grand Island, Broken Bow

Oklahoma City, Okla. (AP)—Authorities in portions of Nebraska, Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas were deluged Sunday night and early Monday by reports of unidentified flying objects (UFO).

The Sedgewick County Sheriff's office at Wichita, Kan., said the Weather Bureau tracked "several of them at altitudes of 6,000 to 9,000 feet."

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said Tinker Air Force Base here was tracking as many as four of the unidentified flying objects on its radar screen at one time, estimating their altitude at about 22,000 feet.

A Tinker spokesman refused to confirm or deny the radar observations.

"The reported sightings will be investigated by Air Force personnel," said information officer Lt. John Walmsley.

Reports of the UFO's came from Sidney, Grand Island, and Broken Bow, Neb.; Pecos, Monahans, Odessa, Midland, Fort Worth, Canyon and Dalhart, Tex.; Chickasha, Shawnee, Cushing, Buymon and Chandler, Okla.; Oxford, Belle Plaine, Winfield, Caldwell, Mulvane and Wichita, Kan.; and from Hobbs, Carlsbad and Artesia, N.M.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol said police officers in three different patrol cars reported watching the objects fly in a diamond-shaped formation for about 30 minutes in the Shawnee area. The patrol said the officers described the objects as changing in color from red to white to blue-green.

A dispatcher for the Sedgewick County Kansas sheriff's office said "I was a disbeliever, but I saw something up there and so did other observers at the Weather Bureau and the Air Force base (McConnell)."

Police Officer Edward Roberts of Caldwell told radio station KFJ at Wichita in a tape recorded interview that he and two other persons sighted one of the objects east of the Caldwell airport.

In the interview, Roberts said "we stood on top of the car. You could see (the object) with the naked eye. It looked like it was on the ground or hovering just above the ground. It was red, greenish blue and yellowish white. About 100 yards long. egg shaped. I would estimate we were about five miles from it."

At 3:40 a.m. the Wichita Weather Bureau said it had tracked one of the objects south and west of Wellington. The bureau said it first showed up on their radar at an altitude of about 22,000 feet and had descended to 4,000 feet.

Descriptions phoned to police and other authorities included:

"They were red and exploded in a shower of sparks and at other times fluttered like a leaf" in the clear sky.

Deputy Sheriff Dancarter of Canyon, Tex., said he "thought at first a plane had exploded in the air." The object appeared to go south," he said, "then disintegrated in all colors."

Spokesmen at Tinker and McConnell Air Force bases are referring all queries to the Air Force in Washington.

In the past, the Air Force has said the sightings have turned out to be such things as balloons, birds, search lights, jet exhaust, kites, meteors, missiles.

As of July 20, the Air Force had checked 9,127 sightings since 1947 with 667 still unidentified and said that its investigations had turned up no evidence to indicate the objects come from space.

UFOs Spotted 3rd Consecutive Night At Sidney

Sidney (UPI)—Personnel at the main gate of the Sioux Army Ordnance Depot reported, for the third consecutive night, sighting unidentified flying objects.

The witnesses said the UFO's appeared to be white. Other sightings were reported Sunday night at Broken Bow and Grand Island.

Capt. Les Beekin of the Sioux Depot was quoted as saying he saw the objects Saturday night and Sunday night.

He said he saw one large object and four smaller ones in a diamond-like formation.

"They looked like a cruiser going through the sky," he said.

He said four other guards also had seen them. He reported the sighting to Warren Air Force Base at Cheyenne, Wyo.

AF Declares People Are Seeing Stars

Washington (AP)—The Air Force, hit by a new rash of reports of unidentified flying objects in the sky, said Monday that people apparently are seeing stars.

In answer to questions about reports from the southwestern part of the country a spokesman said:

"Initial study of reports received would indicate that the observations were astrophysical in nature. The objects observed may have been the planet Jupiter or the stars Rigel, Capella, Betelgeuse or Aldebaran which were visible.

At the time of the reported sightings, the azimuth and elevation of the reported sightings supports this preliminary conclusion."

The spokesman said there was no indication at this time that any of the reported objects were actually tracked on radar.

He said no planes were scrambled in any attempt to intercept or identify the reported objects.

UNPLANNED OPENING

Fred Ruma, 66, Omaha, stands behind a chair in his Council Bluffs, Iowa, barber shop, opened unexpectedly Monday by a 1964 model car. Mrs. Maude Broadfoot, 64, of Atlantic, Iowa, said the car went out of control as she attempted to back into a parking stall and crashed through the front window. Ruma, his wife and two grandchildren, who were in the shop at the time, escaped injury.

Fort Robinson Group Seeks Improvements In Facilities

Fort Robinson (AP)—The Fort Robinson Association which seeks to develop the historic cavalry post into a historical and recreational site, has adopted a set of resolutions looking toward improved facilities.

At a meeting the group established a statewide operational arm to be known as the Fort Robinson Volunteer Cavalry. Dr. William Hall, director of the University of Nebraska School of Journalism, has named recruiting officers to organize each county in the state at the rate of $2 per membership.

Resolutions adopted spelled out these objectives in use of the fort, which now houses a U.S. Department of Agriculture Beef Research Station as well as historical and tourist facilities.

—Beef research center activity should be confined to the minimum requirements of current research.

—No new projects or expansion should be undertaken that will interfere with historical and recreational facilities and natural resources now in existence.

—Lease by the USDA to the Nebraska Game, Parks and Forestation Commission of the parade grounds including the flagstaff, the wooded streamside area on Soldier Creek from U.S. Highway 20 to the stream's confluence with the White River consisting of about 20 acres, other accesses to favorable campsites along the White River, sufficient ground east of U.S. 20 and north of the present public cabin area for immediate planning and construction of a swimming pool.

40 Per Cent Of Sorghum Crop Headed

Nearly three-fourths of Nebraska's corn crop has tasseled, and around 40% of the sorghum crop has headed, government crop observers reported Monday.

Sorghum has shown good to excellent development although weeds are a problem, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

Corn crop progress is ahead of normal but some corn root worm and corn borer damage has occurred.

Other crop report observations:

Soybeans have been making good development. Plants are blooming and beginning to set pods.

Moisture Adequate

Some areas, especially in the Upper Platte Valley, need sunshine and warm weather to help bring row crops to maturity. Soil moisture reserves generally are adequate.

Harvest of winter wheat is now 96% completed. Normally the harvest has been completed by this date. Rain and damp weather have held up progress in the Panhandle and the crop is only 70% cut in that area. Quality of wheat and test weights have been lowered somewhat by rain.

The oats harvest is 85% completed, with many high yields reported.

Livestock feed supplies remain adequate to abundant.

Rainfall received throughout the state during the past week included:

Grand Island	East	3.3
Lincoln	3.3 Norfolk	4.3
North Platte	3.3 Omaha	1.34
Chadron	Central	1.4
Scottsbluff	West	1.4

Ted Sorensen Ranked Highest With Kennedy

... Mrs. Lincoln's Memoirs Reveal

New York (AP)—Evelyn Lincoln, personal secretary to the late President John F. Kennedy, writes that Theodore (Ted) Sorensen, special counsel, was Kennedy's closest and most trusted aide.

She ranks Sorensen ahead of special presidential assistant Arthur Schlesinger Jr. in this respect.

All three are publishing memoirs about Kennedy. Mrs. Lincoln's book, "My Twelve Years with John F. Kennedy," is to be published Aug. 30 by David McKay.

In her book, Mrs. Lincoln, a native of Polk, Neb., says of Sorensen, also a native Nebraskan, "He was like a younger brother to the President, and, outside of his brother Bob, there was no one the President trusted or relied upon more."

She writes that Kennedy "admired Schlesinger's brilliant mind, his enormous store of information, and his ability to turn a phrase, and he benefited from Schlesinger's many friendships with people in the academic world who could come up with new ideas; but Schlesinger was never more than an ally and assistant."

"The President understood that he supported him only because he felt that, as president, Kennedy was in the best position to further his own liberal ideas. He knew that Schlesinger would have preferred to be working for 'President' Adlai Stevenson."

Sorensen, Mrs. Lincoln recalls, "was far more than a ghostwriter for the President, although his speeches and other writings were excellent. He was really more shadow than ghost—shadow in the sense that he was never very far from Kennedy during the 12 years they worked together."

"Ted moved even closer to John F. Kennedy after he became president. As crisis after crisis broke, Ted was called upon for advice, ideas, and words."

Mrs. Lincoln writes that during Kennedy's four-year campaign, 1956-1960, to win the democratic nomination she overheard him say, "I want to keep Ted with me wherever I go in this campaign. You need someone whom you can trust implicitly."

She says: "As their relationship grew stronger, there seemed to be a kind of unspoken communication between them. Often Ted would start to work on something with little more than a nod from the senator."

"Ted moved even closer to John F. Kennedy after he became president. As crisis after crisis broke, Ted was called upon for advice, ideas, and words."

Wealth Of The Nation

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Some of the things that make this nation great were discussed recently before the U.S. Chamber of Commerce by Herbert V. Prochnow, president. The First National Bank of Chicago. His remarks centered on the respective roles and relationships of government and private enterprise. Naturally, his emphasis was placed on private enterprise and the individual.

"Too often in our history," he said, "we have fought against wealth when we should have fought against want. Private industry is engaged in a war against human want. In the great outpouring of wealth by automated and power-driven industry, we are giving the individual the highest standard of living in history. Even more, we are producing the wealth necessary for a further major development of mankind. The flowering of literature, the arts and music and the development of many of those things that give distinction to man, and grace and beauty to his society, find their roots in the soil of economics and industry."

"The increasing wealth created by industry foreshadows an undreamed of extension of education and a new release for art and literature and music. It prophesies an unheard of leisure for the common man. It assures an outpouring of goods to give man that economic freedom from which the higher values of society flow."

"It promises mankind that there will be light in the world. The greatest social and economic advance for the individual in the years ahead will come as a result of the progress of industry as it makes increasingly and cultural advantages that once were the privilege of the few."

Mr. Prochnow then went on to sum up, as follows, the reasons for this nation's greatness: "As you move along the inspiring pathway of American history, you quickly discover the reason for the greatness of this nation. It is the genius of the individual. It is the genius of the competent businessman who combines labor, capital and raw materials to produce a vast outpouring of goods to enrich the lives of the masses. It is the genius of the working man, whose labor, self-discipline and thrift are vital to the creation and operation of modern industry. It is the genius of the great doctor who frees children from crippling disease. It is the genius of the talented architect who creates magnificent buildings. It is the genius of the devoted teacher who inspires youth to greatness. It is the genius of the dedicated public servant who enables good government to survive."

In those and the rest of his words, Mr. Prochnow put together a pretty good outline of this country. It is an outline, however, with which some people might take issue and which different people might interpret in different ways. His statement, for instance, that private industry "is engaged in a war against human want" is one that many challenge today. There is a substantial division among the business community as to the role it plays in society. Some question that it has any social consciousness at all, that its purpose is anything other than the making of a profit.

Those who take this attitude build a wall between business and the nation that can serve no useful purpose but which can bring about a substantial conflict. Fortunately, the majority opinion in business and industry today is the enlightened one of a social consciousness.

This opinion is found in the belief that management or ownership must operate with some concern for the welfare of those in its employ as well as for the citizenry in general. This does not mean that business and industry operate on a welfare basis but that its operation takes into account the need for a minimum standard of living for all people.

Government, of course, has not been the cause of this nation's greatness but it has been a part of the cause. No society can survive without the establishment of some kind of order by which all of its members live and that order is known as government. The relationship of this government to other elements of society is constantly undergoing change and through the history of this nation the role of government has become an increasingly prominent one. Government and industry have both become more closely related in the wake of advanced scientific achievement and the international character of so much of the nation's life.

It is important that we recognize the relationships that exist and that we understand the role to be played by all elements of society. The principles of unity on which this nation was founded have never been more vital than they are today.

Government's Role

Toynbee On Viet Nam

Arnold J. Toynbee, the eminent historian, upset much of America's thinking over the week end.

He said we should get out of Viet Nam. He challenged, as a myth, the belief that communism is a monolithic world conspiracy. And he asserted that the other side of the war in Viet Nam is not being conducted by Red China or by Russia or even much by the North Vietnamese, but really by the rank and file of South Vietnamese, whom, we presume, we are saving. He charges us with misplaced pride and says whether we wish to believe it or not we are mixed up in a colonial war. He believes we would be better off not to get out of a bad deal.

The case of Viet Nam, is a divided one, and much of what Mr. Toynbee said can be substantiated by fact. But that is not the whole story. There is another side to the coin, much of which can also be substantiated by a good deal of fact. One thing certain, we are involved rightly or wrongly and it is very difficult to quit at the low ebb. It is evident that the U.S. does not wish to become a colonial power, especially not in Southeast Asia. Moreover, it is evident that the United States is doing all that there is to be done to end the conflict in an honorable way.

Mr. Toynbee's words have value in that they state the side that is seldom heard here and that is worth something. But they do not constitute the finest of advice to the country. Advising and being actually involved are two different matters and we are actually involved. We are learning that our idea of justice is not always shared by backward countries and that is always the problem of a leading nation, no matter how well disposed it may be.

The New German Wall

The East German government is unhappy with the wall it built to keep its people from fleeing to West Germany. The wall is too obvious and constitutes a visible plea of guilty by being up where it can be seen by all.

This does not mean that East Germany is having a change of heart. It has to have people to be a country and if there were not a barrier a couple of decades would empty out the nation. Before the wall was built an average of 1,700 East Germans were fleeing daily into West Berlin. The number is greatly less now due to physical difficulty in getting out. And it was always significant that the fleeing was only in one direction.

To solve it now East Germany is digging a large and long trench and putting the wall in the trench. They figure that will be less noticeable and more effective.

But typical of communist countries the East Germans are doing very little in other ways to convince its citizens that life is as good in the East as in the West. If that were so, the one way traffic to the West would end. There is one of the great differences between the communist world and the free world. The wall tells the story and tells it so well that the East Germans are trying to hide the wall, but they are not trying to get rid of it.

It is hard to believe that a system which must hold its people by imprisoning them can be much of a system or ever win much of the world.

Nebraska's Big Break

It was an eventful day for Nebraska when President L. B. Johnson signed into law the bill that appropriated $310,150 for the purchase of land and $1,842,000 for a five year development program for the fossil beds at Agate.

This was at once a great boon to paleontology and for pioneer Nebraska. The Agate fossil beds are the biggest and best in the world for the remains of creatures which inhabited the earth in the tertiary period, which is to say 15 million years ago.

Agate is in the old Sioux Indian country. The village is on the Niobrara river in the Nebraska Panhandle, about 15 miles from the Wyoming line, 22 miles south of Harrison and 34 miles north of Mitchell. It is about 35 miles south and west of Fort Robinson. Something over 3,100 acres will be included in the Agate Fossils Bed National monument.

Capt. James H. Cook, army scout, Indian friend and cattle drover, discovered the fossil bed on the ranch he acquired about 1878. A descendant of eminent forebears he recognized the value of his find and in his later years entertained paleontologists from many parts of the world, did valuable research himself.

Indians for years considered him their true friend and visited him formally until his death in 1942. His widow is contributing his large collection of Indian artifacts for a museum that will be built with federal funds.

Its own great value plus its proximity to Fort Robinson will make Agate the state's leading tourist attraction. And best of all it will perpetuate the memory of James H. Cook, an outstanding early day Nebraskan.

Facing Reality

A new father was looking at the babies through the window of a nursery and it seemed as though every baby was crying. "Why are they all bawling?" he asked a nearby nurse.

"Listen," she said, "if you were only a few days old, without any clothes, and owed almost $1,700 on the national debt, you'd be bawling, too."

"I Ask Only That Certain Players Be Given A Few Extra Turns At Bat And A Few Extra Strikes"

DREW PEARSON Johnson's Position Liked By Governors

WASHINGTON — The appeal that impressed the governors most when they met with the President at the closed-door White House session on Viet Nam was when he punched with his right arm and said:

"We're going to punch against aggression. And," he continued, striking the air with his left hand, "We're going to punch with Secretary Rusk for peace with everything we've got at the conference table."

After he sat down, and after the two-hour session was over with its additional briefings by the Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense McNamara, the first governor on his feet was George Romney of Michigan, who in Minneapolis had refused to vote approval of the administration's Viet Nam policy.

Explaining his previous negative position, Romney said he had wanted to wait to get more facts from the White House briefing and that having heard it, he was with LBJ 100 per cent.

As the session ended, Secretary McNamara, one time Detroitier when president of the Ford Motor Company, came up to Romney, one time head of American Motors.

"I see you called me a liar at the governors' conference," said McNamara. There was a smile on his face, but a tinge of acid in his voice.

"Oh, no," replied the governor of Michigan, "I didn't say that. I said you had misinformed the public over the years."

Romney referred to Secretary McNamara's optimistic statement in 1963 that he hoped the "major part of the U.S. military task could be completed by the end of 1965."

Aside from this altercation, and the fact that Gov. Mark Hatfield still held out against the Johnson policy, every governor walked out of the closed-door session obviously impressed with the President's sincerity and determination.

"You can stay here until midnight if you want to," the President told the governors during his two-hour session. "I want to answer every question you have. This is a matter of deep concern to the American public and I want you to have the facts." ... The President made ten times the effort of any ordinary man in exploring the entire Viet Nam problem," commented Gov. Dick Hughes of New Jersey afterward.

MARQUIS CHILDS

South America A Tinder Box

SANTIAGO, Chile — A confidential list being circulated to American embassies throughout the world shows what each country has contributed to the American war effort in Viet Nam. Despite pressure from every source, the contribution from Latin-American nations is, with a few minor exceptions, zero.

The reasons are not hard to find. In the first place, from this southernmost capital and, for that matter, from all of South America, Viet Nam appears as remote as though it were on the moon. Rarely referred to by anyone when it does come up, the tendency is to regard it as America's concern.

But the detachment is more than an accident of geography. Two major uncertainties color the attitude of most Latin-American leaders. The first is the disarray in American policy since the intervention in the Dominican Republic. The second and more serious factor is the widespread unrest and disorder afflicting much of the hemisphere.

Chile happens to be a conspicuous exception to this rule, since here various elements in the social structure, more often than not in conflict elsewhere, seem able to come together for a common goal. But in at least a half-dozen countries the future is obscure, with time running out for civilian governments and the hope of progress by an orderly democratic process. Military juntas may be able to freeze a kind of stability, although in view of the magnitude of the problems to be solved, sheer military force must be a temporary expedient.

The view throughout the continent is that Argentina, with a case of galloping inflation, growing unemployment and unrest, cannot for long avoid a military coup. Colombia is practicing a kind of fiscal brinkmanship that may temporarily stave off collapse if only because no alternative to the shaky civilian regime is visible. Uruguay, once considered in the vanguard of Latin Democracies, an underpopulated country, suffers from a rapid political and economic deterioration.

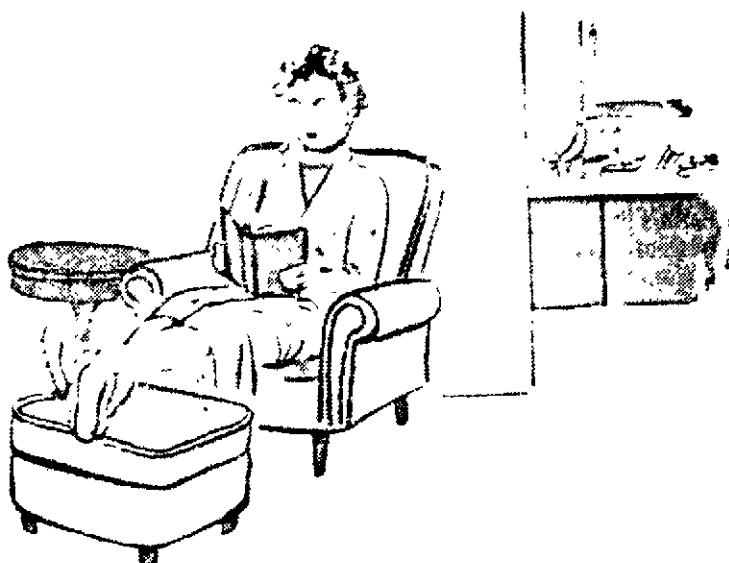

WALTER J. O'BRIEN JR.

Ecuador is torn by disorders and Bolivia is ruled by an unstable, two-headed military junta that drove out the elected president, Paz Estensoro. This is the somber roll call. In Central America soft spots such as Guatemala add to the sense of unease and uncertainty.

Untrained, semi-illiterate, this is the source of alienation that may wear the color of communism or may simply be student violence and in the remote countryside, banditry. With the convenience of 20-20 hindsight, it is easy to see that the Alliance For Progress was too limited in scope, too diffuse, too inclined to assume that the Latin word was equivalent to the deed. Unhappily, in the past 18 months, the trend has been down rather than up and the signs of any new upward thrust of hope, of leadership, are hardly visible.

Patchwork Prairie Country

This morning I awakened to find a beginning to a very fine day ... cloudy and cool, with an east wind. Immediately I began thinking how I could best use such a day to the best advantage. There are the big windows to the south that need to be polished ... the iris bed could do with some attention ... and mending is waiting. I itemized to myself as I fixed breakfast.

When the dishes were washed, I found I had left a book I had been reading last night on the end table. "Countryman" by Hal Borland is one of the most pleasing books to my taste that I have read for some time, so when I saw it, I could not resist the temptation to read a chapter or two.

Cool, cloudy mornings are for reading, too, I surmised. "I never start my day by reading, but why get into a rut?" I asked myself. I have found I can justify almost any whim I get without a guilt complex. That is why thinking to myself and talking aloud at times is so satisfactory. No one ever argues the point or talks back. "I" always agree with "me" and so we get along very well. After "I" had convinced "me" that I should sit down and read a spell, I felt very lavish as a queen must feel when she had breakfast in bed.

Of course not being able to resist reading "Countryman" is also a tribute to Mr. Borland, who writes very well. When I had finished reading, I had a store of thoughts to dwell upon for the remainder of the day.

Surprisingly enough, I found I liked the idea of catching a few moments of reading in the morning, so I have decided to try it again. I have another book by Legette Blythe called "Mountain Doctor" telling of the true adventures of a doctor in the mountain country of the Carolinas, which is also very inviting. I peeked between the covers and read the captions of some of the pictures in the book.

Tomatoes, firm and rosy red from the garden, never have been larger and more delicious than this year. Now and then I find where a grasshopper has nibbled on one. Even so, there will be bushels of tomatoes. I am happy at the prospects of replenishing my supply, as last year's crop was almost nonexistent due to a blight that curled the leaves and destroyed most of the plants. As a result, I did not get enough for canning purposes.

We use many jars of tomatoes in chili in the winter months. Steaming and fragrant, it comes from the stove, and satisfies the heartiest appetite. We also like tomatoes sweetened and canned as sauce. They are such a versatile fruit and lend themselves to such a variety of dishes that I like to have many jars on my fruit cupboard shelf.

I have heard the first faint echoes pertaining to the beginning of another school year. One little girl viewed the big assortment of crayons in the dime store. She wanted the huge box with its vast number of colors that confuses the young child rather than aiding him in his art work.

She needed another quarter before she could purchase the crayons. She was very philosophical about her plight.

"I will just have to start washing the breakfast dishes until school starts so I will get a five-cent raise in my allowance," she said.

The little girl who was by her side had another idea. "Why don't you borrow the money from your brother and pay it back later?" she asked.

I wondered how many TV commercials she has been listening to lately. It seems their slogans sound something like that.

Paying On Time

Lincoln, Neb.

Your paperboy must go, seldom failing to have your morning paper in your left hand, while you hold your coffee in your right hand. This is a service which many of our public-spirited citizens have taken for granted. Let's face facts—it's a diligent young man who rises at six a.m. seven mornings of every week, to face whatever Mother Nature may have in store.

Not only does he have to make daily deliveries, but he also has to make collections, very frequently going more than once to the same home.

These ambitious citizens deserve more credit than most of them are getting. Too many times, I have heard people complaining about their papers being a few minutes late, or being a little damp around the edges. These people should realize that paperboys do not cover their routes in warm, dry automobiles, and that they cannot always be prepared for the unexpected ways of Mother Nature.

SC #12 — service times courtesy equals twice the amount of money. Your paperboy doesn't make any more or any less for prompt service and courtesy, unless you take the responsibility upon yourself. For 35 cents, the cost of one pack of cigarettes, you could make his tasks more rewarding. For this reward, you will never have to worry about late deliveries or damp edges. After all, you don't blame a waitress if the food is bad. Then why blame your paperboy for old news?

WALTER J. O'BRIEN JR.

On The Spot

Lincoln, Neb.

Recent legislation of the state income tax and resulting statements and actions by certain of our state leaders indicate to me that an honest, forthright look at our method of government be taken.

It now seems that serious effort is being expended to have a referendum vote on this tax measure. If we are to put this question before the people, pray why do we have a legislature? Why not have referendum votes on all suggested legislation and save all the money we spend at the Statehouse?

But of course this is foolish and impractical. We elect representatives to devote their knowledge, time and energy to putting forth the best methods of government for us. We felt that these men exemplified our desires and would carry out our wishes to the best of their abilities.

Now the folly of a referendum vote on personal income tax should be glaringly apparent to us all.

Let's be honest. Given a choice of tax or no tax, we'd all vote "no tax." But this does not solve the basic problem of where to raise the money to operate the state government. The question in reality is what kind of tax will do the best and most equitable job for us all.

Our representatives are there to determine this for us—to the best of their abilities. They have decided by a majority for the personal income tax, so if any question exists in this matter, I'm afraid a lot of names should appear on the referendum ballot as to the desirability of certain legislators remaining as our representatives. And, further, we'd all better do some soul-searching regarding our voting them there in the first place!

Sort of puts us all on the spot, doesn't it?

SATISFIED

Too Much Hurry

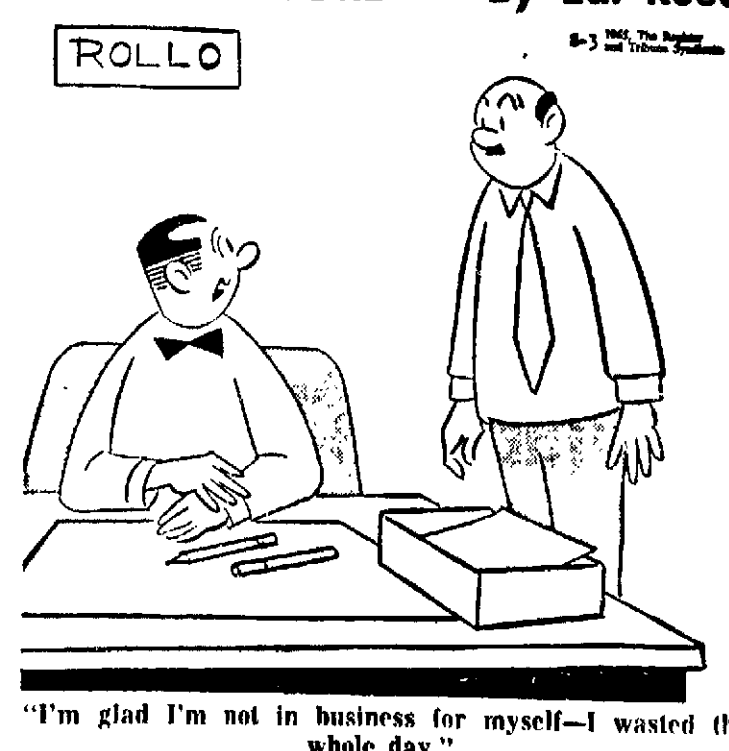

Bladen, Neb.

I am wondering what the United States and the rest of the world are going to come to if they do not put on the brakes. Everything and everybody have to go in a hurry. They run as if a posse were on their trail. They just can't go fast enough in these modern times.

They cannot take time to rig up a mowing machine for cutting weeds. They have a faster way, spraying with poison that goes in the water along the roadside, killing the songbirds and small animals and sending poisonous fumes out over the countryside. We need the fresh air for health's sake.

The flowering of literature, the arts and music and the development of many of those things that give distinction to man, and grace and beauty to his society, find their roots in the soil of economics and industry."

"The increasing wealth created by industry foreshadows an undreamed of extension of education and a new release for art and literature and music. It prophesies an unheard of leisure for the common man. It assures an outpouring of goods to give man that economic freedom from which the higher values of society flow."

"It promises mankind that there will be light in the world. The greatest social and economic advance for the individual in the years ahead will come as a result of the progress of industry as it makes increasingly and cultural advantages that once were the privilege of the few."

Mr. Prochnow then went on to sum up, as follows, the reasons for this nation's greatness: "As you move along the inspiring pathway of American history, you quickly discover the reason for the greatness of this nation. It is the genius of the individual. It is the genius of the competent businessman who combines labor, capital and raw materials to produce a vast outpouring of goods to enrich the lives of the masses. It is the genius of the working man, whose labor, self-discipline and thrift are vital to the creation and operation of modern industry. It is the genius of the great doctor who frees children from crippling disease. It is the genius of the talented architect who creates magnificent buildings. It is the genius of the devoted teacher who inspires youth to greatness. It is the genius of the dedicated public servant who enables good government to survive."

In those and the rest of his words, Mr. Prochnow put together a pretty good outline of this country. It is an outline, however, with which some people might take issue and which different people might interpret in different ways. His statement, for instance, that private industry "is engaged in a war against human want" is one that many challenge today. There is a substantial division among the business community as to the role it plays in society. Some question that it has any social consciousness at all, that its purpose is anything other than the making of a profit.

Those who take this attitude build a wall between business and the nation that can serve no useful purpose but which can bring about a substantial conflict. Fortunately, the majority opinion in business and industry today is the enlightened one of a social consciousness.

This opinion is found in the belief that management or ownership must operate with some concern for the welfare of those in its employ as well as for the citizenry in general. This does not mean that business and industry operate on a welfare basis but that its operation takes into account the need for a minimum standard of living for all people.

Government, of course, has not been the cause of this nation's greatness but it has been a part of the cause. No society can survive without the establishment of some kind of order by which all of its members live and that order is known as government. The relationship of this government to other elements of society is constantly undergoing change and through the history of this nation the role of government has become an increasingly prominent one. Government and industry have both become more closely related in the wake of advanced scientific achievement and the international character of so much of the nation's life.

It is important that we recognize the relationships that exist and that we understand the role to be played by all elements of society. The principles of unity on which this nation was founded have never been more vital than they are today.

Toynbee On Viet Nam

Arnold J. Toynbee, the eminent historian, upset much of America's thinking over the week end.

He said we should get out of Viet Nam. He challenged, as a myth, the belief that communism is a monolithic world conspiracy. And he asserted that the other side of the war in Viet Nam is not being conducted by Red China or by Russia or even much by the North Vietnamese, but really by the rank and file of South Vietnamese, whom, we presume, we are saving. He charges us with misplaced pride and says whether we wish to believe it or not we are mixed up in a colonial war. He believes we would be better off not to get out of a bad deal.

The case of Viet Nam, is a divided one, and much of what Mr. Toynbee said can be substantiated by fact. But that is not the whole story. There is another side to the coin, much of which can also be substantiated by a good deal of fact. One thing certain, we are involved rightly or wrongly and it is very difficult to quit at the low ebb. It is evident that the U.S. does not wish to become a colonial power, especially not in Southeast Asia. Moreover, it is evident that the United States is doing all that there is to be done to end the conflict in an honorable way.

Mr. Toynbee's words have value in that they state the side that is seldom heard here and that is worth something. But they do not constitute the finest of advice to the country. Advising and being actually involved are two different matters and we are actually involved. We are learning that our idea of justice is not always shared by backward countries and that is always the problem of a leading nation, no matter how well disposed it may be.

The New German Wall

The East German government is unhappy with the wall it built to keep its people from fleeing to West Germany. The wall is too obvious and constitutes a visible plea of guilty by being up where it can be seen by all.

This does not mean that East Germany is having a change of heart. It has to have people to be a country and if there were not a barrier a couple of decades would empty out the nation. Before the wall was built an average of 1,700 East Germans were fleeing daily into West Berlin. The number is greatly less now due to physical difficulty in getting out. And it was always significant that the fleeing was only in one direction.

To solve it now East Germany is digging a large and long trench and putting the wall in the trench. They figure that will be less noticeable and more effective.

But typical of communist countries the East Germans are doing very little in other ways to convince its citizens that life is as good in the East as in the West. If that were so, the one way traffic to the West would end. There is one of the great differences between the communist world and the free world. The wall tells the story and tells it so well that the East Germans are trying to hide the wall, but they are not trying to get rid of it.

It is hard to believe that a system which must hold its people by imprisoning them can be much of a system or ever win much of the world.

Nebraska's Big Break

It was an eventful day for Nebraska when President L. B. Johnson signed into law the bill that appropriated $310,150 for the purchase of land and $1,842,000 for a five year development program for the fossil beds at Agate.

This was at once a great boon to paleontology and for pioneer Nebraska. The Agate fossil beds are the biggest and best in the world for the remains of creatures which inhabited the earth in the tertiary period, which is to say 15 million years ago. Agate is in the old Sioux Indian country. The village is on the Niobrara river in the Nebraska Panhandle, about 15 miles from the Wyoming line, 22 miles south of Harrison and 34 miles north of Mitchell. It is about 35 miles south and west of Fort Robinson. Something over 3,100 acres will be included in the Agate Fossils Bed National monument.

Capt. James H. Cook, army scout, Indian friend and cattle drover, discovered the fossil bed on the ranch he acquired about 1878. A descendant of eminent forebears he recognized the value of his find and in his later years entertained paleontologists from many parts of the world, did valuable research himself.

Indians for years considered him their true friend and visited him formally until his death in 1942. His widow is contributing his large collection of Indian artifacts for a museum that will be built with federal funds.

Its own great value plus its proximity to Fort Robinson will make Agate the state's leading tourist attraction. And best of all it will perpetuate the memory of James H. Cook, an outstanding early day Nebraskan.

Facing Reality

A new father was looking at the babies through the window of a nursery and it seemed as though every baby was crying. "Why are they all bawling?" he asked a nearby nurse.

"Listen," she said, "if you were only a few days old, without any clothes, and owed almost $1,700 on the national debt, you'd be bawling, too."

Johnson's Position Liked By Governors

WASHINGTON — The appeal that impressed the governors most when they met with the President at the closed-door White House session on Viet Nam was when he punched with his right arm and said:

"We're going to punch against aggression. And," he continued, striking the air with his left hand, "We're going to punch with Secretary Rusk for peace with everything we've got at the conference table."

After he sat down, and after the two-hour session was over with its additional briefings by the Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense McNamara, the first governor on his feet was George Romney of Michigan, who in Minneapolis had refused to vote approval of the administration's Viet Nam policy.

Explaining his previous negative position, Romney said he had wanted to wait to get more facts from the White House briefing and that having heard it, he was with LBJ 100 per cent.

As the session ended, Secretary McNamara, one time Detroit when president of the Ford Motor Company, came up to Romney, one time head of American Motors.

"I see you called me a liar

at the governors' conference," said McNamara. There was a smile on his face, but a tinge of acid in his voice.

"Oh, no," replied the governor of Michigan, "I didn't say that. I said you had misinformed the public over the years."

Romney referred to Secretary McNamara's optimistic statement in 1963 that he hoped the "major part of the U.S. military task could be completed by the end of 1965."

Aside from this altercation, and the fact that Gov. Mark Hatfield still held out against the Johnson policy, every governor walked out of the closed-door session obviously impressed with the President's sincerity and determination.

"You can stay here until midnight if you want to," the President told the governors during his two-hour session. "I want to answer every question you have. This is a matter of deep concern to the American public and I want you to have the facts."

The President made ten times the effort of any ordinary man in exploring the entire Viet Nam problem," commented Gov. Dick Hughes of New Jersey afterward.

MARQUIS CHILDS

South America A Tinder Box

SANTIAGO, Chile — A confidential list being circulated to American embassies throughout the world shows what each country has contributed to the American war effort in Viet Nam. Despite pressure from every source, the contribution from Latin-American nations is, with a few minor exceptions, zero.

The reasons are not hard to find. In the first place, from this southernmost capital and, for that matter, from all of South America, Viet Nam appears as remote as though it were on the moon. Rarely referred to by anyone when it does come up, the tendency is to regard it as America's concern.

But the detachment is more than an accident of geography. Two major uncertainties color the attitude of most Latin-American leaders. The first is the disarray in American policy since the intervention in the Dominican Republic. The second and more serious factor is the widespread unrest and disorder affecting much of the hemisphere.

Chile happens to be a conspicuous exception to this rule, since here various elements in the social structure, more often than not in conflict elsewhere, seem able to come together for a common goal. But in at least a half-dozen countries the future is obscure, with time running out for civilian governments and the hope of progress by an orderly democratic process. Military juntas may be able to freeze a kind of stability, although in view of the magnitude of the problems to be solved, sheer military force must be a temporary expedient.

The view throughout the continent is that Argentina, with a case of galloping inflation, growing unemployment and unrest, cannot for long avoid a military coup. Colombia is practicing a kind of fiscal brinkmanship that may temporarily stave off collapse if only because no alternative to the shaky civilian regime is visible. Uruguay, once considered in the vanguard of Latin Democracies, an underpopulated country, suffers from a rapid political and economic deterioration.

Ecuador is torn by disorders and Bolivia is ruled by an unstable, two-headed military junta that drove out the elected president, Paz Estensoro. This is the somber roll call. In Central America soft spots such as Guatemala add to the sense of unease and uncertainty.

Untrained, semi-illiterate, this is the source of alienation that may wear the color of communism or may simply be student violence and in the remotest countryside, banditry. With the convenience of 20-20 hindsight, it is easy to see that the Alliance For Progress was too limited in scope, too diffuse, too inclined to assume that the Latin word was equivalent to the deed. Unhappily, in the past 18 months, the trend has been down rather than up and the signs of any new upward thrust, of hope, of leadership, are hardly visible.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

This morning I awakened to find a beginning to a very fine day . . . cloudy and cool, with an east wind. Immediately I began thinking how I could best use such a day to the best advantage. There are the big windows to the south that need to be polished . . . the iris bed could do with some attention . . . and mending is waiting. I itemized to myself as I fixed breakfast.

When the dishes were washed, I found I had left a book I had been reading last night on the end table. "Countryman" by Hal Borland is one of the most pleasing books to my taste that I have read for some time, so when I saw it, I could not resist the temptation to read a chapter or two.

Cool, cloudy mornings are for reading, too, I surmised. "I never start my day by reading, but why get into a rut?" I asked myself. I have found I can justify almost any whim I get without a guilt complex. That is why thinking to myself and talking aloud at times is so satisfactory. No one ever argues the point or talks back. "I" always agree with "me" and so we get along very well. After "I" had convinced "me" that I should sit down and read a spell, I felt very lavish as a queen must feel when she had breakfast in bed.

Of course not being able to resist reading "Countryman" is also a tribute to Mr. Borland, who writes very well. When I had finished reading, I had a store of thoughts to dwell upon for the remainder of the day.

Surprisingly enough, I found I liked the idea of catching a few moments of reading in the morning, so I have decided to try it again. I have another book by Legette Blythe called "Mountain Doctor" telling of the true adventures of a doctor in the mountain country of the Carolinas, which is also very inviting. I peeked between the covers and read the captions of some of the pictures in the book.

Tomatoes, firm and rosy red from the garden, never have been larger and more delicious than this year. Now and then I find where a grasshopper has nibbled on one. Even so, there will be bushels of tomatoes. I am happy at the prospects of replenishing my supply, as last year's crop was almost nonexistent due to a blight that curled the leaves and destroyed most of the plants. As a result, I did not get enough for canning purposes.

We use many jars of tomatoes in chili in the winter months. Steaming and fragrant, it comes from the stove, and satisfies the heartiest appetite. We also like tomatoes sweetened and canned as sauce. They are such a versatile fruit and lend themselves to such a variety of dishes that I like to have many jars on my fruit cupboard shelf.

I have heard the first faint echoes pertaining to the beginning of another school year. One little girl viewed the big assortment of crayons in the dime store. She wanted the huge box with its vast number of colors that confuses the young child rather than aiding him in his art work.

She needed another quarter before she could purchase the crayons. She was very philosophical about her plight.

"I will just have to start washing the breakfast dishes until school starts so I will get a five-cent raise in my allowance," she said.

The little girl who was by her side had another idea. "Why don't you borrow the money from your brother and pay it back later?" she asked.

I wondered how many TV commercials she has been listening to lately. It seems their slogans sound something like that.

Paying On Time

Lincoln, Neb. Your paperboy must go, seldom failing to have your morning paper in your left hand, while you hold your coffee in your right hand. This is a service which many of our public-spirited citizens have taken for granted. Let's face facts—it's a diligent young man who rises at six a.m. seven mornings of every week, to face whatever Mother Nature may have in store.

Not only does he have to make daily deliveries, but he also has to make collections, very frequently going more than once to the same home.

These ambitious citizens deserve more credit than most of them are getting. Too many times, I have heard people complaining about their papers being a few minutes late, or being a little damp around the edges. These people should realize that paperboys do not cover their routes in warm, dry automobiles, and that they cannot always be prepared for the unexpected ways of Mother Nature.

SC=M2 — service times courtesy equals twice the amount of money. Your paperboy doesn't make any more or any less for prompt service and courtesy, unless you take the responsibility upon yourself. For 35 cents, the cost of one pack of cigarettes, you could make his tasks more rewarding. For this reward, you will never have to worry about late deliveries or damp edges. After all, you don't blame a waitress if the food is bad. Then why blame your paperboy for old news?

WALTER J. O'BRIEN JR.

On The Spot

Lincoln, Neb. Recent legislation of the state income tax and resulting statements and actions by certain of our state leaders indicate to me that an honest, forthright look at our method of government be taken.

It now seems that serious effort is being expended to have a referendum vote on this tax measure. If we are to put this question before the people, pray why do we have a legislature? Why not have referendum votes on all suggested legislation and save all the money we spend at the Statehouse?

But of course this is foolish and impractical. We elect representatives to devote their knowledge, time and energy to putting forth the best methods of government for us. We felt that these men exemplified our desires and would carry out our wishes to the best of their abilities.

Now the folly of a referendum vote on personal income tax should be glaringly apparent to us all!

Let's be honest. Given a choice of tax or no tax, we'd all vote "no tax." But this does not solve the basic problem of where to raise the money to operate the state government. The question in reality is what kind of tax will do the best and most equitable job for us all.

Our representatives are there to determine this for us—to the best of their abilities. They have decided by a majority for the personal income tax, so if any question exists in this matter, I'm afraid a lot of names should appear on the referendum ballot as to the desirability of certain legislators remaining as our representatives. And, further, we'd all better do some soul-searching regarding our voting there in the first place!

Sort of puts us all on the spot, doesn't it?

SATISFIED

Too Much Hurry

Bladen, Neb. I am wondering what the United States and the rest of the world are going to come to if they do not put on the brakes. Everything and everybody have to go in a hurry. They run as if a posse were on their trail. They just can't go fast enough in these modern times.

They cannot take time to rig up a mowing machine for cutting weeds. They have a faster way, spraying with poison that goes in the water along the roadside, killing the songbirds and small animals and sending poisonous fumes out over the countryside. We need the fresh air for health's sake.

Avoids Downtown

Lincoln, Neb.

"Amen" to the complaints about the blood-thirsty meter-readers. When I first came to Lincoln, I enjoyed shopping downtown. It's a pleasant little city with nice stores. I tried conscientiously to watch the meters, but still was fined for overtime, which in most instances could have been only a few minutes.

I now go to the downtown stores only when I have to. The meter-readers surely must be on a commission system.

Council Informally Approves $279,503 Health Dept. Budg

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday informally approved the 1965-66 city-county Health Department budget of $279,503, in effect since July 1.

The city, according to Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey, will be responsible for paying approximately $90,000, or half, of the balance after inspection fees, state and federal funds are subtracted.

The council was reviewing the Health Department budget for the first time Monday morning as last questions about the entire city budget were being considered.

$6,408 State Funds

Health Director Dr. George R. Underwood reported that by increasing the dental department to full-time status, the city-county agency would receive $6,408 in state funds to be matched by local funds to finance the dental activities.

The budget is up nearly $58,000 from last year with major increases in salaries, including the addition of another sanitarian on the staff, furniture and fixtures to equip the department's new offices, and new X-ray equipment at a cost of $12,000. Federal funds are to defer 40% of the new equipment costs, Underwood said.

The council turned down an Inspections Division request for two additional building inspectors to replace personnel transferred to a newly created zoning unit within the division.

Instead, the council approved the addition of one zoning inspector in a position to be titled "chief, minimum housing and zoning inspector." Members agreed with Mayor Dean Petersen that a person who could devote part of his time to minimum standards housing would keep the city eligible for federal funds which help promote work in this area.

Other Action

In other informal budget action the council:

—Agreed to start the widening to 44 feet of South St. between 9th and Memorial Drive with funds left over from the $492,500 originally proposed for a Leighton spur from 33rd to 41st. Instead the Leighton spur, now planned as a $113,000 project, will only run between 44th and 41st.

—Decided to put back into the park budget $14,000 for paving 56th between A and Summer since city engineering officials say the project can be completed and assessed next fiscal year.

—Decided against adding funds to the budget for engineering or construction of the proposed Northeast Diagonal. Councilman John Comstock objected to adding any such funds until the origin-destination traffic study is completed.

She was first runnerup for Miss Indian America last year.

$130,000 Added To Mayor's Budget In Tentative Action

The City Council Monday passed a resolution giving tentative approval to almost $130,000 in additions to Mayor Dean Petersen's proposed fiscal 1965-66 city budget.

Aug. 12 was set as the date for the public hearing of the $45.8 million council-adjusted budget.

Added by the council was $14,000 for the paving of 56th from A to Summer, originally included in the Park Department budget but taken out during earlier hearings, and $4,000 for increased clothing allowances for the Fire Department.

$7,000 Pared

A total of $7,000 was pared from a proposed $68,000 expenditure for a new street department building at Winthrop Road and South. Also cut by one was a request by the inspection office for an additional two building inspectors.

Still included thus far in park department requests are $87,000 for a swimming pool in Belmont and $45,000 for an instructional pool at Woods Park.

Council members indicated more changes could be made in the budget before it becomes final.

Application Okayed

In other action, the council approved an application to transfer the off and on sale beer license at 1035 M. The End Zone, to Arthur R. Kluge.

Pope's Attorneys Seek Access To Evidence Gathered In Case

Attorneys for Duane E. Pope filed motions in Federal District Court Monday asking that they be given access to the evidence which federal prosecutors have gathered against the 22-year-old Kansan, charged with a bank robbery and murder.

The defense lawyers asked the right to examine such things as statements given by Pope; any shells, guns or other tangible physical objects; any articles, term papers or letters obtained by government agents from Pope's parental home at Roxbury, Kan.; all hotel registrations, rental agreements, credit card gasoline purchase agreements or other such documents; arrest records, lineup sheets and any other books, papers, documents or other objects which may have been used before the grand jury or may be offered as evidence at the trial.

Pope has been charged in a grand jury indictments with six counts of robbery and murder in the June 4 holdup of the Farmers State Bank in Big Springs. Three bank employees were slain and a fourth wounded during the holdup.

A hearing on the new motions was set for Aug. 13.

Pope's lawyers, Robert B. Crosby and Wallace Rudolph of Lincoln, have indicated they will peg their defense on a contention that Pope was blameless because of his mental condition.

Monday's bid was made in the form of two motions, one for subpoena of the items and the other for discovery and inspection.

"All items sought are evidentiary and pre-trial production of them is reasonable," said the motion for subpoena. "Such production will expedite the trial of the case and will materially aid the defendant in the preparation of his defense."

Pope's lawyers said the motion for the right to inspect, copy and subject the items to scientific analysis was "made in good faith and not for the purpose of delay."

Community Council Survey Slated On Citizens' Views Of City Services

"Have you had a particularly unfavorable experience with any of the city boards or services?"

This question is one of many which about 4,000 Lincoln residents will get chance to answer when the Council of Communities survey is distributed in town some time after Labor Day.

The Council has been established to foster civic growth and betterment by providing a means for an interchange of ideas between the citizens and city government and the citizens.

Frank Answers Sought

The survey will be printed and distributed to large companies and the University of Nebraska in Lincoln with the wish that people answer as frankly as possible.

Included in the questionnaire will be chances for the citizen to comment on services he has especially profited from and tell of anything he would like to see in Lincoln. The questionnaire is not meant to be solely a place to air one's gripes.

The idea for the survey was borrowed from Ogden, Utah, and Covina, Calif., where officials deemed the results successful.

Members of the Council of Communities are Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller, John Haessler, Mrs. Helen Cowles, Dale LeBaron, Gerald Morrison, State

Sen. John Knight, Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, and Russell Bradley.

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday informally approved the 1965-66 city-county Health Department budget of $279,503, in effect since July 1.

The city, according to Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey, will be responsible for paying approximately $90,000, or half, of the balance after inspection fees, state and federal funds are subtracted.

The council was reviewing the Health Department budget for the first time Monday morning as last questions about the entire city budget were being considered.

$6,408 State Funds

Health Director Dr. George R. Underwood reported that by increasing the dental department to full-time status, the city-county agency would receive $6,408 in state funds to be matched by local funds to finance the dental activities.

The budget is up nearly $58,000 from last year with major increases in salaries, including the addition of another sanitarian on the staff, furniture and fixtures to equip the department's new offices, and new X-ray equipment at a cost of $12,000. Federal fund are to defer 40% of the new equipment costs, Underwood said.

The council turned down an Inspections Division request for two additional building inspectors to replace personnel transferred to a new city created zoning unit within the division.

Instead, the council approved the addition of one zoning inspector in a position to be titled "chief, minimum housing and zoning inspector." Members agreed with Mayor Dean Petersen that a person who could devote part of his time to minimum standards housing would keep the city eligible for federal funds which help promote work in this area.

Other Action

In other informal budget action the council:

—Agreed to start the widening to 44 feet of South St. between 9th and Memorial Drive with funds left over from the $492,500 originally proposed for a Leighton spur from 33rd to 41st. Instead the Leighton spur, now planned as a $113,000 project, will only run between 44th and 41st.

—Decided to put back into the park budget $14,000 for paving 56th between A and Summer since city engineering officials say the project can be completed and assessed next fiscal year.

—Decided against adding funds to the budget for engineering or construction of the proposed Northeast Diagonal.

Councilman John Comstock objected to adding any such funds until the origin-destination traffic study is completed.

MISS INDIAN AMERICA

Marcelle Sharron Ahtone, 20, is the new Miss Indian America. She was crowned at Sheridan, Wyo. A Kiowa who lives in Billings, Mont., Miss Ahtone is a student at Northeastern College in Tahlequah, Okla., and is a graduate of Bacone, Okla. Junior College. She was first runnerup for Miss Indian America last year.

$130,000 Added To Mayor's Budget In Tentative Action

The City Council Monday passed a resolution giving tentative approval to almost $130,000 in additions to Mayor Dean Petersen's proposed fiscal 1965-66 city budget.

Aug. 12 was set as the date for the public hearing of the $45.8 million council-adjusted budget.

Added by the council was $14,000 for the paving of 56th from A to Summer, originally included in the Park Department budget but taken out during earlier hearings, and $4,000 for increased clothing allowances for the Fire Department.

Buildings, to conform to the Uniform Building Code, recommended for adoption by the city, approved.

—Providing for the removal of obstructions on corner lots, action deferred one week.

Second Reading

—Creating a paving district, 56th, between Linden and Locust.

—Creating a water district, 40th, between Prescott and Clifford Drive.

—Approving the plat of Hanson Heights, in the vicinity of Calvert and Hanson Drive.

—Vacating part of W and east-west alleys in blocks 101 and 102 Bethany Heights.

First Reading

—Creating a paving district, Fischer Ave., between Touzalin and 70th.

—Creating a graveling district, Aylesworth Ave., between 58th and Carlos Drive (Read second time).

—Vacating the west seven feet of No. 56th from 33 feet north of the center line of Morrill Ave. to 330 feet south of the center line of Morrill Ave.

—Supplementing classifications of the city pay schedule, relating to directors.

—Approving the plat of Kent-Worth addition, in the vicinity of 48th and Old Cheney Road.

Miscellaneous

—Change of zone from C-4 to I commercial between 16th and 17th, Harwood and South.

—Change of zone from AA rural and public use to K light industry, all land lying south of Neb. 2, east of 48th, not now zoned K light industrial.

—Change of zone from A-2 single family to B-2 two family dwelling in the vicinity of 66th and Benton Sts.

Miscellaneous

—Approving the plat of Westland Heights addition, approved.

—Approving the new sidewalk construction priority table, action deferred.

$7,000 Pared

A total of $7,000 was pared from a proposed $63,000 expenditure for a new street department building at Winthrop Road and South. Also cut by one was a request by the inspection office for an additional two building inspectors.

Still included thus far in park department requests are $87,000 for a swimming pool in Belmont and $45,000 for an instructional pool at Woods Park.

Council members indicated more changes could be made in the budget before it becomes final.

Application Okayed

In other action, the council approved an application to transfer the off and on sale beer license at 1035 M, The End Zone, to Arthur R. Kluge.

Other business:

Ordinances, Final Reading

—Creating a water district, 70th St., Fletcher St. to 1/2 mile north of Fletcher, approved.

—Approving the plat of Newport addition, in the vicinity of 10th and Superior, approved.

Pope's Attorneys Seek Access To Evidence Gathered In Case

Attorneys for Duane E. Pope filed motions in Federal District Court Monday asking that they be given access to the evidence which federal prosecutors have gathered against the 22-year-old Kansan, charged with bank robbery and murder.

The defense lawyers asked the right to examine such things as statements given by Pope; any shells, guns or other tangible physical objects; any articles, term papers or letters obtained by government agents from Pope's parental home at Roxbury, Kan.; all hotel registrations, rental agreements, credit card gasoline purchase agreements or other such documents; arrest records, lineup sheets and any other books, papers, documents or other objects which may have been used before the grand jury or may be offered as evidence at the trial.

Pope has been charged in a grand jury indictment with six counts of robbery and murder in the June 4 holdup of the Farmers State Bank in Big Springs. Three bank employees were slain and a fourth wounded during the holdup.

A hearing on the new motions was set for Aug. 13.

Pope's lawyers, Robert B. Crosby and Wallace Rudolph of Lincoln, have indicated they will peg their defense on a contention that Pope was blameless because of his mental condition.

Monday's bid was made in the form of two motions, one for subpoena of the items and the other for discovery and inspection.

"All items sought are evidentiary and pre-trial production of them is reasonable," said the motion for subpoena.

"Such production will expedite the trial of the case and will materially aid the defendant in the preparation of his defense."

Pope's lawyers said the motion for the right to inspect, copy and subject the items to scientific analysis was "made in good faith and not for the purpose of delay."

Community Council Survey Slated On Citizens' Views Of City Services

"Have you had a particularly unfavorable experience with any of the city boards or services?"

This question is one of many which about 4,000 Lincoln residents will get chance to answer when the Council of Communities survey is distributed in town some time after Labor Day.

The Council has been established to foster civic growth and betterment by providing a means for an interchange of ideas between the citizens and city government and the citizens.

Frank Answers Sought

The survey will be printed and distributed to large companies and the University of Nebraska in Lincoln with the wish that people answer as frankly as possible.

Included in the questionnaire will be chances for the citizen to comment on services he has especially profited from and tell of anything he would like to see in Lincoln. The questionnaire is not meant to be solely a place to air one's gripes.

The idea for the survey was borrowed from Ogden, Utah, and Covina, Calif., where officials deemed the results successful.

Members of the Council of Communities are Mrs. J. Edmunds Miller, John Haessler, Mrs. Helen Cowles, Dale LeBaron, Gerald Morrison, State

Sen. John Knight, Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, and Russell Bradley.

Bill Will Let State Get Medicare Aid

The Legislature will be presented with a new bill this week to permit Nebraska to qualify for substantial federal fund benefits written into the new medicare act passed by Congress.

"It will result in substantial savings of state funds," State Welfare Director John Gage said Monday.

Dollar estimates may not be available for months, however, according to the department's legal counsel E. D. Wamsol.

Preparation Authorized
Sen. Marvin F. Storer, of Lincoln, chairman of the Legislature's Public Health and Welfare Committee has authorized preparation of the new bill and will present it to Gov. Frank Morrison for his signature.

Then, Storer said, he will introduce the legislation at the request of the governor.

Most of the benefits to the state will accrue from Title 19 of the federal act, Gage said, which rewrites provisions for medical assistance for the need.

Affected by the changes will be Nebraska programs of old age assistance, aid to the blind and to the disabled and the Kerr-Mills program of medical care for the needy aged, Gage noted.

"Advantageous" All will be combined under one matching fund formula which will be "advantageous to the state," he said.

Lancaster Delegation Hits Snags On Apportionment

Lancaster County legislative delegation has encountered some problems in setting forth new districts but it is hopeful a palatable plan can be fashioned soon.

That was the unanimous feeling of four of the five senators from the second most populous Nebraska county in interviews Monday.

Senators Urge 'Fair' Method Of U.S. Voting

A resolution urging adoption of an amendment to the U.S. Constitution to provide "a fair and just" method of electing the president and vice president was adopted on a 31-0 vote in the Legislature Monday.

The resolution No. 42, introduced by Red Cloud Sen. Kenneth Bowen, states that the present method of allocating electoral votes for the top two offices in the country is unfair because "it does not reflect the minority votes cast" in each state.

The resolution recommends that a constitutional convention be called or Congress take action to provide a method under which the electoral votes within each state could be divided to accurately reflect the minority votes.

Resolutions Poke LBJ's Road Beauty Plan

The Legislature's Public Works Committee Monday voted 5-0 to introduce two resolutions taking swipes at President Johnson's highway beautification program.

French Minister Honored By Reds

Tokyo (AP)—Andre Malraux, French minister of state and special envoy of President Charles de Gaulle, was honored at a banquet in Peking by Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi, the New China News Agency reported.

In a welcome speech, Chen Yi expressed hope that Malraux's visit "would promote the growth of relations between the two countries and friendship and understanding between the two peoples," said the broadcast heard here.

One of the resolutions condemns the administration's bill to tighten control of billboards, and the other opposes diversion of federal highway funds for scenic road purposes.

Legislation pending in Congress basically would require that:

—Three per cent of all federal funds to states be diverted for purchase of scenic easements to preserve the natural beauty of countryside.

—One-third of all federal secondary road funds — that amounts to about $2 million annually in Nebraska — be diverted for construction of scenic roads, with the federal money to be matched dollar-for-dollar by state or local funds.

—Billboards, junk yards and other eyesores be prohibited or screened within 1,000 feet of all federal primary and interstate highways.

The Public Works Committee resolutions state Nebraska is in favor of the present method of billboard control whereby states enter into voluntary agreements with the federal government for control of outdoor advertising along the Interstate and Nebraska believes funds should not be diverted from the secondary road construction and improvement program for construction of scenic roads.

An anti-diversion of funds resolution was adopted by the State Highway Advisory Commission last week.

Lancaster Delegation Hits Snags On Apportionment

Lancaster County legislative delegation has encountered some problems in setting forth new districts, but it is hopeful a palatable plan can be fashioned soon.

That was the unanimous feeling of four of the five senators from the second most populous Nebraska county in interviews Monday.

"There is no big problem. Some mechanics must be worked out yet, but nothing major," said Sen. Fern Hubbard Orme of Lincoln, a four-term lawmaker.

"I am sure any differences can be worked out before too long," said Sen. John Knight.

"The problem is with sheer numbers. We almost have to go down alleys to make the 26,941 average for the six districts."

Under the legislative reapportionment bill before the Legislature, Lancaster County would join with the western ends of Otoe and Cass Counties to form six districts.

Sen. Marvin E. Stromer said there are some roadblocks "because of the tightness of concentration of people in some areas of the city."

Sen. Hal Bauer doesn't foresee any problems that can't be resolved. He said the delegation is working hard at dividing the county into workable districts.

Lincoln City-County Director Douglas Brogren has been asked to obtain official 1960 census bureau population tracts.

The fifth member of the delegation, Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly, was not available for comment on redistricting efforts.

Legislation pending in Congress basically would require that:

—Three per cent of all federal funds to states be diverted for purchase of scenic easements to preserve the natural beauty of countryside.

—One-third of all federal secondary road funds — that amounts to about $2 million annually in Nebraska — be diverted for construction of scenic roads, with the federal money to be matched dollar-for-dollar by state or local funds.

—Billboards, junk yards and other eyesores be prohibited or screened within 1,000 feet of all federal primary and Interstate highways.

The Public Works Committee resolutions state Nebraska is in favor of the present method of billboard control whereby states enter into voluntary agreements with the federal government for control of outdoor advertising along the Interstate and Nebraska believes funds should not be diverted from the secondary road construction and improvement program for construction of scenic roads.

An anti-diversion of funds resolution was adopted by the State Highway Advisory Commission last week.

Retired Couple Enthusiastic About Visit To Land Of Ancestors

By ROBERT PETERSON
Every day except Sunday big passenger ships move majestically into New York harbor. Many of those crowding the decks are retirees returning from their first trip abroad.

The other day I wandered down to Pier 92 to watch the Queen Mary come in with some 1,800 passengers. Seeing a great ocean vessel arrive adds up to a thrilling experience. If the shipping lines ever need extra revenue they can set up bleachers and charge folks a fee to watch.

Few spectacles match the sight of tugs patiently berthing a giant ocean liner. Few fiestas offer the excitement and gaiety crackling from crowds shouting and waving to those lining the ship's rail. And few dramas match the tear-packed poignancy of seeing old friends reunited with loved ones.

Among the hundreds streaming down the gangplanks were the Albert Larsons who were returning from their first visit to Sweden.

"We finally saw the old country," said Larson when I invited him and his wife, Lovene, to sit down and tell me about their trip. Larson, 72, is a retired wheat and cattle farmer from Enterprise, Kansas.

"Both my wife's parents and mine came to the U.S.

Poodle Chews Up Man's Dentures

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. — A California man needed a fast denture repair after his poodle chewed his false teeth. He stated a new product, PLATE-WELD, repaired the break and replaced a tooth on the spot. He said it held like new. Company reports PLATE-WELD is available at all drug stores.

HOW TO MAKE THE NEW DRINK SMIRNOFF MULE

Pour a jigger of Smirnoff over ice. Add juice of 1/4 lime. Fill Mule mug or glass with 7-Up® to your taste. Delicious! No wonder this refreshing new party drink is sweeping the country. Try a Smirnoff Mule tonight. It swings!

in the 1870's and settled in the Midwest where we were born. They often talked nostalgically of Sweden's mountains, lakes and villages, and we vowed we'd go for a visit someday.

"But we kept putting it off. We couldn't afford it when we were young. Then we married and decided to wait until we had a family. The years passed and soon we were grandparents and retired.

"We still kept saying we were going to Sweden 'someday.' But when you get older you need to be prodded. If our son and daughter hadn't taken us to a travel agency and insisted we sign up for a tour we'd probably still be talking about it."

Did the trip live up to expectations? "Yes, and then some," he replied enthusiastically. "Everything was new to us, from the jet flight over to our return by ship. The jet ride alone was worth the price of the trip.

Muscatine, Ia. — Appointment of William Fahy as business manager and Margaret Griffith as assistant to the publisher of the Muscatine Journal has been announced by P. D. Adler, president of Lee Enterprises, Inc.

Both have a record of long experience in various departments.

Miss Griffith has served in editorial department, circulation, classified advertising and secretarial positions.

Fahy served as circulation manager at the time of World War II. Following army service he entered the retail advertising department where he had been retail advertising manager. He also has had editorial and photographic experience on the Journal.

The Muscatine Journal and The Lincoln Star are both Lee newspapers.

Seal Holds Up Harbor-Clearing Dynamite Blast

Kyuquot, B.C. (AP)—Removal of a shoal from Kyuquot Harbor took 15 tons of dynamite and a week of waiting for a half-lame seal named Miss Charlie.

Miss Charlie is everybody's pet in this isolated fishing village 220 miles northwest of Victoria on Vancouver Island.

When the federal government crew moved in to destroy a shoal blocking the harbor, Miss Charlie's friends hollered "wait."

Practically every boat in town took to the water to find Miss Charlie and save her from the explosion. It took a week to catch her.

Miss Charlie watched the $80,000 blow-up from a pen on shore.

I kept thinking how incomprehensible it would have been to my long-departed Dad.

"We stayed with the tour through seven countries, and then spent two weeks in Sweden on our own — meeting distant relatives for the first time and seeing where our ancestors lived. We tried to imagine our parents as children playing in the streets and fields, and growing up and deciding to emigrate to the new land of opportunity."

Was the travel tiring? "Not a bit. Going with a tour group makes travel easy. They take care of such details as baggage, buses, hotels and make sure you see the major sights. You don't have to worry about a thing. Most folks on the tour were retired so we had plenty of companionship."

Should all elders try and visit the land of their forebears? "Absolutely — if they possibly can. It adds up to one of the greatest experiences of a lifetime. And it's not as expensive as it sounds.

"This trip cost us the price of a new car. But we won't mind driving our old Ford a few more years. It still gets us around and we've got memories now to contemplate and enjoy every day for the rest of our lives."

POSTCARD

Morning at Mauna Kea Beach. We breakfast on pancakes sprinkled with macadamia nuts. Coconut syrup. The sea is as blue as ink spilled on a blotter. The waves come in like poured sugar. The sky — the color of washed blue denim — is filled with whipped cream clouds. And steel guitar music slides out of the hidden speakers. "I want to go back to my little grass shack..." The little grass shack here cost $15 million—the newest of Mr. Laurence Rockefeller's resorts from here to the Caribbean. This is the southern island of Hawaii—they call it "the Big Island." It is not as humid as it is farther down the coast. A gentle trade wind blows all day up to the slopes of Mauna Kea volcano. There's a small patch of snow on top. Old lava flows, mostly overgrown with green tropical grasses, go all the way to the sea. The coast down at the old missionary town of Kailua drops into curving coconut palms. Flowering blue jacaranda trees. Torch ginger and orange bird of paradise flowers and waxy plumeria. He favors individual cottages. But he tried out a pilot unit here—they say it cost nearly a quarter of a million. He tried it out. Slept in it. Figured it wouldn't work for Kona weather. So he dynamited it. Bang! All pau as they say here. Finish. Then he built this honeycomb hotel. All breezeways and overhanging balconies. An 18-hole golf course by the blue sea. And $2 million worth of landscaping onto the crushed lava. On the curve of white beach, the lazy guests (all buttered with suntan lotion) are soaking up the sun. (I imagine a quick brown fox would jump over such lazy guests.) On the sea, two small boats with bright-colored sails are slipping before the wind. The beach boys—brown by nature and mahogany from sun—are putting up blue beach umbrellas. The coffee on the table is local—Kona coffee. It is rich in flavor. Black as Kamehameha's fangs. He didn't know before the missionaries told him. ("You mean that's a sin?" said the King. "Well, I'll be!") They had a grand opening the other day. But now the captains and the kings have departed. Leaving us to our little grass shack. Dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Only some are luckier than others.

2 Noxious Weed Control Bills Passed By Legislature

Two bills launching a new attack on the problem of controlling noxious weeds were passed on final reading in the Legislature Monday.

LB332 replaces present weed eradication and control laws with a compromise noxious weed control program under general direction of the state director of agriculture.

LB447 makes the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds responsible for the eradication of noxious weeds on all state school lands.

Bills passed on final reading in the State Legislature Monday (Emergency clause).

LB855—Providing standards and regulations for the eradication of brucellosis, under direction of the State Agriculture Department (For the governor, by Kremer) (35-4).

LB332—Providing a comprehensive noxious weed control program under general direction of the state director of agriculture, as substituted for present weed eradication and control laws (Carpenter, Kjar) (E) (35-4).

LB334—Revising regulations and standards for licensing and operation of bottle clubs (Bauer) (23-4).

LB447—Including certain state fair employees retirement system (Gerdes under the state employees retirement system (Gerdes Stryker) (30-4).

LB412—Setting three year terms for members of the state building commission, and placing the commission in charge of erection of the prospective state office building (Hasebrook, Warner, Craft, Stromer, Danner) (38-4).

LB306—Permitting any elected or appointed official, except those subordinate to the mayor and council, to be a candidate for mayor or councilman in Omaha (Labor Committee) (37-4).

LB447—Making the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds responsible for the eradication of noxious weeds on all state school lands (Kjar, Gerdes) (34-2).

LB812—Authorizing the military department to transfer certain land in Daves County to the city of Chadron (For the governor, by Gerdes) (35-4).

LB926—Creating an emergency fire fighting fund under governor's control to assist in controlling and extinguishing wild land fires (Agriculture Committee) (E) (33-4).

LB277—Authorizing the Game Commission to acquire not more than 600 acres of state school land by eminent domain in any calendar year for park, recreation area or wildlife management purposes (Agriculture Committee) (E) (34-4).

LB918—Allowing aliens to be engaged as teachers or research assistants by colleges and universities without limitation as to time (For the governor, by Orme, Stromer) (E) (37-4).

Senators Honor Late Colleague

Conklin, a state senator during the 1943 and 1945 sessions, died Saturday. Services are scheduled for Tuesday at Hubbell, Neb.

Efficiency Survey

Seattle (AP)—One of the problems encountered in an efficiency survey of Washington state government was reported here. A researcher had to wait four hours to interview a department head in the capitol at Olympia until the official had a two-hour lunch and then finished a bridge game with other employees in the office.

'66 Finish Of North Platte, Omaha Interstate Expected

The State Roads Department expects that by the end of 1966 motorists will be able to drive 278 miles from downtown Omaha to North Platte without encountering a stop sign.

G. C. Strobel, deputy state engineer, said bids will be opened Thursday on a 19-mile segment of Interstate 80 between Phillips and Hampton. Next month, he said, bids will be opened on the last link not under contract between downtown Omaha and North Platte. The segment is a four-mile strip between Hampton and Henderson.

"After September, the whole thing from North Platte east will either be under contract, under construction or complete," Strobel said.

Entire Season But it will take the entire construction season in 1966 to put the finishing touches on the 278 miles of four-lane super highway, he said.

"It will take a lot of construction effort," Strobel said, adding that all work on the stretch may not be completed until December of next year.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplaine

Morning at Mauna Kea Beach: We breakfast on pancakes sprinkled with macadamia nuts. Coconut syrup. The sea is as blue as ink spilled on a blotter. The waves come in like poured sugar. The sky — the color of washed blue denim — is filled with whipped cream clouds. And steel guitar music slides out of the hidden speakers: "I want to go back to my little grass shack..."

The little grass shack here cost $15 million—the newest of Mr. Laurance Rockefeller's resorts from here to the Caribbean. This is the southern island of Hawaii—they call it "the Big Island." It is not as humid as it is farther down the coast. A gentle trade wind blows all day up to the slopes of Mauna Kea volcano. There's a small patch of snow on top. Old lava flows, mostly overgrown with green tropical grasses, go all the way to the sea. The coast down at the old missionary town of Kailua drops into curving coco palms. Flowering blue jacaranda trees. Torch ginger and orange bird of paradise flowers and waxy plumeria. This was favorite country of the great King Kamehameha. He was a military rascal and couldn't be trusted as far as you could throw an orchid petal. But he beat all the other kings (who were the same breed of cats). United the islands. And now they name everything for him. From streets to sandwiches. When he got older, he came down here to the Kona coast. Probably saying: "That Honolulu is getting too crowded." Just like the people who come here today.

He favors individual cottages. But he tried out a pilot unit here—they say it cost nearly a quarter of a million. He tried it out. Slept in it. Figured it wouldn't work for Kona weather. So he dynamited it. Bang! All pau as they say here. Finish. Then he built this honeycomb hotel. All breezeways and overhanging balconies. An 18-hole golf course by the blue sea. And $2 million worth of landscaping onto the crushed lava. On the curve of white beach, the lazy guests (all buttered with suntan lotion) are soaking up the sun. (I imagine a quick brown fox would jump over such lazy guests.) On the sea, two small boats with bright-colored sails are slipping before the wind. The beach boys—brown by nature and mahogany from sun—are putting up blue beach umbrellas. The coffee on the table is local—Kona coffee. It is rich in flavor. Black as Kamehameha's sins. He didn't know before the missionaries told him. ("You mean that's a sin?" said the King. "Well, I'll be!") They had a grand opening the other day. But now the captains and the kings have departed. Leaving us to our little grass shack. Dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Only some are luckier than others.

2 Noxious Weed Control Bills Passed By Legislature

Two bills launching a new attack on the problem of controlling noxious weeds were passed on final reading in the Legislature Monday.

LB332 replaces present weed eradication and control laws with a compromise noxious weed control program under general direction of the state director of agriculture. LB447 makes the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds responsible for the eradication of noxious weeds on all state school lands.

Bills passed on final reading in the State Legislature Monday (Emergency clause):

LB332—Providing standards and regulations for the eradication of noxious weeds, under direction of the State Agriculture Department. (For the governor, by Kremer) (39-0). LB332—Providing a comprehensive noxious weed control program under general direction of the state director of agriculture, as substitute for present weed eradication and control laws. (Carpenter, Kjar) (E) (43-6). LB447—Revising regulations and standards for licensing and operation of bottle clubs. (Bauer) (25-8). LB447—Including certain state fair employees retirement system. (Gerdes, under the state employees retirement system. (Gerdes Stryker) (39-0). LB413—Setting three year terms for members of the state building commission, and placing the commission in charge of erection of the prospective state office building. (Hasebrook, Warner, Craft, Stromer, Danner) (38-0). LB303—Permitting any elected or appointed official, except those subordinate to the mayor and council, to be a candidate for mayor or councilman in Omaha. (Labor Committee) (37-0). LB447—Making the State Board of Educational Lands and Funds responsible for the eradication of noxious weeds on all state school lands. (Kjar, Gerdes) (34-2). LB312—Authorizing the military department to transfer certain land in Dawes County to the city of Chadron. (For the governor, by Gerdes) (36-0). LB326—Creating an emergency fire fighting fund under governor's control to assist in controlling and extinguishing wild land fires. (Agriculture Committee) (E) (38-0). LB377—Authorizing the Game Commission to acquire not more than 640 acres of state school land by eminent domain in any calendar year for park, recreation area or wildlife management purposes. (Agriculture Committee) (E) (33-6). LB313—Allowing aliens to be engaged as teachers or research scientists by colleges and universities without limitation as to time. (For the governor, by Orme, Stromer) (E) (37-0).

Senators Honor Late Colleague

State lawmakers Monday adopted a resolution honoring one of their late colleagues, J. E. Conklin of Lincoln. Conklin, a state senator during the 1943 and 1945 sessions, died Saturday. Services are scheduled for Tuesday at Hubbell, Neb.

The Legislature stood for a moment in tribute to Conklin and extended its sympathy to his family.

New Bottle Club Law OK'd

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Monday enacted a new bottle club law after turning back a last-ditch effort to substantially rewrite the measure.

The bill, LB334, won 28-8 approval.

It bans "spiking," provides that bottle clubs may not dispense liquor on Sunday, and imposes a new bottle club membership tax of $1 per person, with proceeds returned to city or county government.

Also written into the law are provisions which meet legal objections raised in a Lincoln court case about bottle club liquor pools and sale of liquor to a bottle club licensee.

$250 Licenses

LB334 directs bottle clubs to acquire licenses at $250 cost, and also requires separation of public restaurant facilities from a bottle club.

Sen. Richard Lysinger of Ravenna attempted to remove the no-spiking section and to amend the bill to knock out the power-of-attorney provision which now permits bottle clubs to purchase liquor for their members, pool it and to dispense it by the drink.

Lysinger said the anti-spiking section will force some restaurants and steak houses "into the liquor business" or reduce their food business.

Under LB334, customers can no longer bring their own bottle into a public restaurant, or dance hall, and drink liquor with their meals or between dances.

Hurt Store Owners

If bottle clubs are permitted to retain their power of attorney with respect to liquor purchases, "it will knock 50% of the package store owners out of business," Lysinger argued.

Under the power-of-attorney provision, bottle club members may order any drink from a common liquor pool. With Lysinger's amendment, they would be required to bring their own bottle and be served only from it.

The Lysinger motion to return LB334 to select file to consider the two amendments was defeated on a 16-19 vote.

Removal of the power-of-attorney provision would have killed the bill, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff said, and returned bottle club regulation to a state of chaos.

Prior to adoption of a bottle club act by the 1963 Legislature, Carpenter noted, Lincoln displayed "absolute non-concern" about the enforcement of liquor laws through unregulated operation of bottle clubs.

Compromise

Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln, chief sponsor of LB334, said the measure represented a compromise proposal combining provisions of a number of bills laid before the Unicameral this session.

To change the bill would "upset the appellate completely," he said.

Sen. William Wylie of Elgin noted that the bill will provide "more state and local regulation, and revenue" from the operation of Nebraska's 50 bottle clubs.

Some 12,000 persons are members of bottle clubs in Lincoln and Lancaster County.

All four Lincoln senators voted to enact the bill, but Sen. Jerome Warner of Waverly — who represents rural Lancaster County — opposed the measure.

Opinion Told On Proposed Duis Amendment Change

The State Justice Department said Monday that if a proposal to modify the Duis amendment is adopted by voters next year, the state can only levy a property tax for building purposes.

This, it added, would be the case regardless of the outcome of the state income tax act.

LB341, currently pending before the State Legislature, proposes a constitutional amendment to modify the Duis amendment, which now restricts the state from levying a property tax when a sales or income tax becomes effective.

The measure has won first-round approval but must undergo a final test before placed on the November, 1966, ballot. It is supported by pro-income tax forces.

The Justice Department opinion, delivered to Omaha Sen. Sam Klaver, said there is no adverse connection between the income tax act, the modifier proposal and the bill to repeal the property tax.

LB562, the repealer bill, was amended last month by Sen. Hal Bauer of Lincoln, chief sponsor of the income tax act, to insure the state

Rejectees Aid To Start As Soon As Funds Arrive

State Health Director E. A. Rogers said Monday his department will begin a new counseling program for military draft rejectees as soon as the federal money to finance the program arrives.

Dr. Rogers said Lincoln physician Arnold I. Webman has been selected as a part-time director of the project, and two clerical aids and an interviewer have also been hired.

Dr. Rogers said the contracts for the project were signed July 16, but his department has not yet received the more than $30,000 in federal funds necessary to finance the program for the coming year.

The project, wholly financed by federal funds, is designed to provide counseling to persons rejected from the military draft for physical or mental reasons, Dr. Rogers said.

Between 100 and 120 persons are rejected in Nebraska each month.

The health director said Dr. Webman and the staff will explain to rejectees the reasons for their 4-F ratings and advise them as to where help might be obtained.

could levy a property tax if the income tax is defeated by taxpayers.

At that time, Klaver called Bauer's rider another attempt to harass the referendum effort to place the income tax on the ballot. Bauer denied the allegations.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Homer Hamilton agreed with Bauer. He said LB562 is merely a "housekeeping measure to insure orderly government."

FOOD

a brand new sandwich

Dude Ranchers are eminently satisfying solutions to dog day menu problems when sweltering August sunshine takes the edge off appetites as well as putting a damper on any desire we might have had to cook up a storm. They're the ideal main dish idea consisting of easy-to-assemble open face rye bread sandwiches. Turkey tomato and bacon slices cover a shredded cabbage base—the really distinguishing touch is a zesty topper of salad dressing, Parmesan cheese and horseradish that's broiled to a bubbly brown. They're unusually good especially with crisp relishes, and so kind to the cook.

DUDE RANCHERS
Sliced rye bread
Salad dressing
Shredded cabbage
Sliced cooked turkey or chicken
Sliced tomato

Crisply cooked bacon slices
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon cream style horseradish

For each sandwich, spread a slice of bread with salad dressing. Cover with cabbage and slices of turkey, tomato and bacon. Combine 1 cup salad dressing, cheese and horseradish, top sandwiches. Broil 5 minutes or until topping is bubbly.

Revival Of 19th Century In New Furniture Styles

New wind direction now but showing all signs of taking on Force-7 velocity is a revival of furniture styles of the early 19th Century. This graceful furniture is reminiscent of Sheraton, Directoire, Regency, Empire and Biedermeier. This trend will undoubtedly grow in popularity and is worth watching. Early American or Colonial veers toward a new heaviness and mass for the new "country" look, or leans more on Hepplewhite and Sheraton for a typical more refined Federal look. As for Oriental, this influence is found more in accessories and less in furniture groupings. However, Oriental has been around a long time and blends so well with many styles of furniture that it really never goes completely out of vogue.

Upholstery fabrics, geared to the new "loungy" lush look are high-pile, very "happy" and dimensional in appearance. Many velvets are used, in prints, stripes, elaborate cut-velvet, suede cloth, corduroy, jumbo slub weaves, textured wovens... anything but flat prosaic fabrics. Even the flat surfaces resembling burlap, linen, crash or jute have a dimensional interest because of combination weaving techniques, cross-dyeing and blends of yarns. A lot of quilting is seen adding to the general rich effect. Used on medium priced prints, for instance, it gives a decorator touch to the line.

As for colors: they are clear, fresh and bright. Green in all shades is gaining. Browns and beiges seem to be fading out of the popular picture. Accents are seen in such colors as melon, bright coral, blue green. Blues are still good, and shades of red are coming up. Rich reds of ruby and garnet hues, russets, are seen in the new "dimensional" wovens. Other colors are dark green, golden yellows and orange, apricot to shrimp, midnight blue. Turquoise is coming back on the scene, often in combination with other blues.

Color is often seen in wood finishes, with earthy red tones, rich olive bronzy greens, sable and antique blue, to mention a few. There is a great deal of distressed finishes and heavily grained wood. Tones vary from very dark all the way to an almost white wood tone. Bamboo is used extensively for legs and arms of sofas and chairs, often on tables. This may be artificially achieved or the real bamboo.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm so upset I've been friendly to a neighbor for some time although we have different interests. She's a golfer and I am not.

A few weeks ago she was one of the winners in a golf tournament and her picture appeared in our local paper. She cut it out and came right over to show it to me. I was happy for her and congratulated her. I forgot all about it until yesterday when I needed some newspapers for a kitten I was trying to housebreak. I pulled a newspaper out of the stack I'd been saving and noticed it was the one with my friend's picture in it, so I reread the article and laid it down for the kitten.

Later that day my friend came over and when she stepped on the porch she noticed the newspaper. She became very indignant when she saw that the kitten had wet close to her picture.

She said I was jealous and small and had done it on purpose. I tried to apologize but she stomped out of the house. When I call her on the phone, she refuses to speak to me. Should I go to her house and try to explain that I meant no harm?

MISUNDERSTOOD
DEAR MISUNDERSTOOD: Let her cool off. If your friend was teed off by a small water hazard, she has a bigger handicap than she realizes. Her sense of humor is below par.

DEAR ABBY: I will be a freshman in high school next September and I have a problem. I'm sure lots of other girls my age have. I know many girls are too free with their kisses, and people talk about them, and I don't want to become this way myself. What do you think of kissing a boy just out of friendship so he won't think you are being cold with him? I have done this once or twice myself and feel now as though I did the wrong thing. Sign me...

FEELING GUILTY
DEAR FEELING: Your conscience is still your best guide. The only reason for kissing anyone is to express sincere affection.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the volunteer really got me. She resented the secrettary who "protected" her precious boss, by insisting on knowing who was calling him and why. She didn't have to say she is not a "professional" woman. It was obvious.

I wonder if "MRS. VOLUNTEER" has any idea how many calls a successful businessman gets every week from someone who is working for a "worthy cause"? And some of these volunteers have the impression that they should be able to see the boss without an appointment, and have their calls put through without delay. I have worked for an attorney for six years and know that most professional and businessmen are so busy during the day that they must take their mail home to read during their few uncommitted hours.

Thank you for telling "MRS. VOLUNTEER" to write a letter. If hers is a truly worthy cause, her letter will get the attention it deserves. And it will be much more appreciated by a busy person than a telephone call at an inconvenient time.

Opening lead — eight of hearts.

Declarer is frequently faced with a problem of maintaining two-way communication between his own hand and dummy. This problem of entries is decisive in some deals because declarer cannot profit from having a number of tricks in one hand or the other if there is no way of reaching the hand with the tricks.

The defenders are also sometimes faced with the problem of communication between their hands. One or the other of them may have tricks which cannot be utilized because there is no entry card to the hand with the tricks.

The problem can sometimes be overcome by the defenders by exercising a reasonable degree of care. Here is such a case.

West leads a heart after East has overcalled in that suit. Dummy plays the queen, East the king, and South makes the right play of allowing East to win the trick.

As a result of this communication-breaking play, South makes the contract. If East continues with the suit, South finesesses the ten and leads a club, eventually establishing three club tricks to make the contract.

Note that if declarer wins the first heart trick, he goes down. When he leads a club, West takes it with the king, returns a heart to the jack and East then continues with a heart and establishes his suit. East still has the ace of clubs as an entry card and South goes down two.

However, East can defeat the contract regardless of what he does if he plays the queen of hearts on the opening lead. East, by permitting declarer to win the first trick, maintains a heart contact with West which prevents South from ever making more than seven tricks.

Thus, if declarer plays a club at trick two, West takes it with the king and returns a heart to East. East, the ace of clubs, wins the trick and South winds up with second money.

a brand new sandwich

Dude Ranchers are eminently satisfying solutions to dog day menu problems when sweltering August sunshine takes the edge off appetites as well as putting a damper on any desire we might have had to cook up a storm. They're the ideal main dish idea consisting of easy-to-assemble open face rye bread sandwiches. Turkey, tomato and bacon slices cover a shredded cabbage base—the really distinguishing touch is a zesty topper of salad dressing, Parmesan cheese and horseradish that's broiled to a bubbly brown. They're unusually good, especially with crisp relishes, and so kind to the cook.

DUDE RANCHERS
Sliced rye bread
Salad dressing
Shredded cabbage
Sliced cooked turkey or chicken
Sliced tomato

Crisply cooked bacon slices
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 teaspoon cream style horseradish

For each sandwich, spread a slice of bread with salad dressing. Cover with cabbage and slices of turkey, tomato and bacon. Combine 1 cup salad dressing, cheese and horseradish; top sandwiches. Broil 5 minutes or until top-ping is bubbly.

Revival Of 19th Century In New Furniture Styles

New wind direction now but showing all signs of taking on Force-7 velocity is a revival of furniture styles of the early 19th Century. This graceful furniture is reminiscent of Sheraton, Directoire, Regency, Empire and Biedermeier. This trend will undoubtedly grow in popularity and is worth watching. Early American or Colonial veers toward a new heaviness and mass for the new "country" look, or leans more on Hepplewhite and Sheraton for a typical more refined Federal look. As for Oriental, this influence is found more in accessories and less in furniture groupings. However, Oriental has been around a long time and blends so well with many styles of furniture that it really never goes completely out of vogue.

Upholstery fabrics, geared to the new "loungey" lush look are high-pile, very "happy" and dimensional in appearance. Many velvets are used, in prints, stripes, elaborate cut-velvet, suede cloth, corduroy, jumbo slub weaves, textured wovens . . . anything but flat prosaic fabrics. Even the flat surfaces resembling burlap, linen, crash or jute have a dimensional interest because of combination weaving techniques, cross-dyeing and blends of yarns. A lot of quilting is seen adding to the general rich effect. Used on medium priced prints, for instance, it gives a decorator touch to the line.

As for colors: they are clear, fresh and bright. Green in all shades is gaining. Browns and beiges seem to be fading out of the popular picture. Accents are seen in such colors as melon, bright coral, blue green. Blues are still good, and shades of red are coming up. Rich reds of ruby and garnet hues, russets, are seen in the new "dimensional" wovens. Other colors are dark green, golden yellows and orange, apricot to shrimp, midnight blue. Turquoise is coming back on the scene, often in combination with other blues.

Color is often seen in wood finishes, with earthy red tones, rich olive bronzy greens, sable and antique blue, to mention a few. There is a great deal of distressed finishes and heavily grained wood. Tones vary from very dark all the way to an almost white wood tone. Bamboo is used extensively for legs and arms of sofas and chairs, often on tables. This may be artistically achieved or the real bamboo.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm so upset. I've been friendly with a neighbor for some time although we have different interests. She's a golfer and I am not.

A few weeks ago she was one of the winners in a golf tournament and her picture appeared in our local paper. She cut it out and came right over to show it to me. I was happy for her and congratulated her. I forgot all about it until yesterday when I needed some newspapers for a kitten I was trying to housebreak. I pulled a newspaper out of the stack I'd been saving and noticed it was the one with my friend's picture in it, so I reread the article and laid it down for the kitten.

Later that day my friend came over, and when she stepped on the porch she noticed the newspaper. She became very indignant when she saw that the kitten had wet close to her picture.

She said I was jealous and small and had done it on purpose. I tried to apologize, but she stomped out of the house. When I call her on the phone, she refuses to speak to me. Should I go to her house and try to explain that I meant no harm?

"MISUNDERSTOOD"
DEAR MISUNDERSTOOD: Let her cool off. If your friend was teed off by a small water hazard, she has a bigger handicap than she realizes. Her sense of humor is below par.

DEAR ABBY: I will be a freshman in high school next September and I have a problem I'm sure lots of other girls my age have. I know many girls are too free with their kisses, and people talk about them, and I don't want to become this way myself. What do you think of kissing a boy just out of friendship so he won't think you are being cold with him? I have done this once or twice myself and feel now as though I did the wrong thing. Sign me . . .

FEELING GUILTY

of the suburban areas

It's Tuesday and not only are we beginning another week but also another month—and another list filled with expected guests and with parties and vacationers.

So we have decided summer months are busy ones and socially speaking—that means fun. The damp, rainy days of the present summer certainly haven't placed a cover over social gatherings and traveling, as you will see again from the news this morning.

KESSLER HEIGHTS

Traveling dominates the social news from the Kessler Heights area this morning and our first social message has to do with weekend trekkers to the western part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion E. Clark couldn't find enough time for a long vacation trip, so decided a visit with Mr. Clark's mother, Mrs. T. G. Clark would be an enjoyable substitute. The couple spent three days with Mrs. Clark in Cozad.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark's weekend visit is now a thing of the past, but we hear one of their neighbor families is anticipating jaunts to Fairbury and Mahaska, Kan., the latter part of this week. We are referring to Mr. and Mrs. James Lowe who will leave Thursday for Fairbury where they will be the houseguests of Mrs. Lowe's mother, Mrs. Emma Buchmeier. The following day the two will again hit the highway as they head for Mahaska, Kan., and a visit with Mr. Lowe's mother, Mrs. Irene Waltman.

FIENE HEIGHTS

The vacationers in Fiene Heights voted unanimously to head for Colorado when their holiday time arrived—or so it appears. There are two families that have Colorado trips to report this week—and then for a switch, we will mention a Colorado family that visited in Lincoln last Friday. As for the visitors, we will need to mention former Lincoln residents Mr. and Mrs. Stan Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson spent the day with their old neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Donovan Luedke, and then continued on to other vacation spots. The traveling pair now reside in Golden, Colo.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scheidt recently returned from a nine-day scenic trip through Estes Park, Colorado Springs and Denver, Colo.

Come August 15, Mr. and Mrs. Don Bryant and their family will be heading toward our neighbor state to the southwest. The family plans to spend 10 days in the Estes Park, Colo., area, hopeful that they will get away from city life for awhile and enjoy the open country.

Fiene Heights boasts two new sets of residents this morning one of which left their home in Milford to settle at 2615 Kessler Blvd. Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Stauffer moved their belongings to their new Lincoln home last Thursday.

The second set of newcomers to the area also made their move to Kessler Blvd., and they are Mr. and Mrs. Matt Taber, former residents at 3834 So. 56th.

TRENDWOOD

Bridge experts gathered last Thursday for a luncheon in Trendwood. Hostess for the affair was Mrs. Robert Diers.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shumaker have had company during the past week. They were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Williams and their children, Molly and Craig. After spending a week in Trendwood, they flew back to their home in St. Louis, Mo. on Sunday.

Vacationers in the area have been Mr. and Mrs. Merle Sherman who have been spending a week in Canada.

party a farewell courtesy

Soon to be off and away to Seattle, Wash., and her father's alma matter, the University of Washington, is Miss G'Neil Palmer, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Raymond H. Palmer.

On Saturday evening a group of Miss Palmer's contemporaries were guests at a surprise party for which Miss Martha McCuiston was hostess at her home.

TALK of the town

It's a nice Tuesday morning—for news. We learned about some weekend travelers—some weekend guests, some home-comers—and more guests—at least one, who will be arriving later this week.

It was a quick trip by air for Mr. and Mrs. Richard Joyce who warmed up their plane for a flight to Madeline Island—And they had two passengers, Mrs. Richard Agee and F. Pace Woods, II. Mr. and Mrs. Joyce and Mrs. Agee visited friends on the Island during the brief weekend, and Mr. Woods was the guest of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Bloom.

Home again from Pelican Lake, Minn., are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schorr, Jr., and their daughter, Linda, who spent nearly a month at their summer home at the lake resort.

Guests of the family during the vacation period was Mrs. Schorr's sister, Mrs. William Post of Chicago; and Miss Kathy Larson.

The Malys—Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, Jr., and their family had heard considerable about 'tourism' in Nebraska, and thought they would try it out. So, off they went to the Sandhills where they spent a week—and loved it.

It's time now to talk about guests, and we'll begin with Mr. and Mrs. George Young of Portland, Ore., who are the house guests of Mr. Young's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Young.

And a Thursday-to-Monday visitor at the home of Miss Cathy Cather was Miss Nyla Soukup of Seward.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Cather, and their family, including Miss Cathy Cather and her house guest spent the day at the Cather summer cottage at South Bend.

But that isn't all of the guest news at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cather. Mrs. Cather's sister, Mrs. Clive Hilgert of Kansas City, Mo., will arrive on Thursday to remain until Tuesday.

One of the reasons for Mrs. Hilgert's visit at this particular time is the 30th reunion of the Jackson High School class of '35. The festivities, by the way, are to be held at Colonial Inn.

ter, Miss Linda Schelbitzki, as her maid of honor for the wedding, which will take place on Saturday, Aug. 14. Her bridesmaids will include Miss Carol Schelbitzki of Strang, also a sister of the bride-elect; Miss Paulette Bruckner, Omaha; Mrs. Sue Kleinschmidt, Geneva; and Mrs. Susan Fallesen, Lexington.

Entertaining next Sunday for Miss Schelbitzki will be Mrs. Gloria Engel and Miss Linda Schelbitzki who will be hostesses at a miscellaneous shower.

Recent courtesies for the bride-elect included a linen shower given last Sunday at Strang. Lincoln guests at the party included Mrs. Clarence Hohensee, mother of Miss Schelbitzki's fiancé, and the bride-elect's sister, Miss Linda Schelbitzki.

Choosing an August date for her approaching wedding is Miss Joyce Ann Vande Krol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vande Krol, who will become the bride of A. C. Alan R. Reese of the Lincoln Air Force Base on Friday, Aug. 6.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 7 o'clock in the evening at the Berean Fundamental Church.

The bride-to-be has named her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ray E. Vande Krol, as her honor attendant, and the bridesmatron will be Mrs. Jerry Hackert of Sully, Iowa.

Serving as best man will be Ray E. Vande Krol, brother of the bride-elect, and seating the guests will be Don Vande Krol, also a brother of Miss Vande Krol; Richard Cole of the Lincoln Air Force Base; and Elden Bergen.

Luncheons Scheduled

Activities of the Lincoln Woman's Club for the week will include a luncheon on Wednesday for the members of the club's literature department.

The luncheon will be held at noon at the clubhouse, and reservations may be made with Mrs. Alta Angell or Mrs. Harry Dingman.

Past presidents of the club will meet for their regular summer luncheon on Friday at the home of Mrs. Harley McCoid, 425 So. 52nd.

Officers of the group are Mrs. Ray C. Johnson, president; Mrs. McCoid, vice president; and Mrs. Harry Hust, secretary.

The week's activities of the club opened on Monday when the members of the board of directors met during the morning at the clubhouse.

LATE summer bride-elect

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Abbott make announcement this morning of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Doris Lucille, to James O. Weiss, son of Mrs. M. Lola Weiss.

The wedding is planned for Friday, Sept. 3, and the ceremony will be solemnized at the Warren Methodist Church.

Bridal Plans, Parties

A very popular bride-to-be of early autumn is Miss Emmagene Dunham who has chosen Saturday, Sept. 11, as the date for her marriage to William Roper.

The former University of Nebraska coed who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene H. Dunham, will be honored Tuesday evening when Mrs. Martin Holtmeier and her daughter, Miss Mary Margaret Holtmeier, will be hostesses at their home.

The guests have been invited for an informal dessert, and during the party, a potter's shower will be presented to the honoree.

Included among numerous recent courtesies for Miss Dunham was the dinner last Thursday evening for which Mr. and Mrs. Harold Salisbury were host and hostess at their home. Members of the families were included among the guests for the dinner, at which Miss Dunham shared honors with her fiancé.

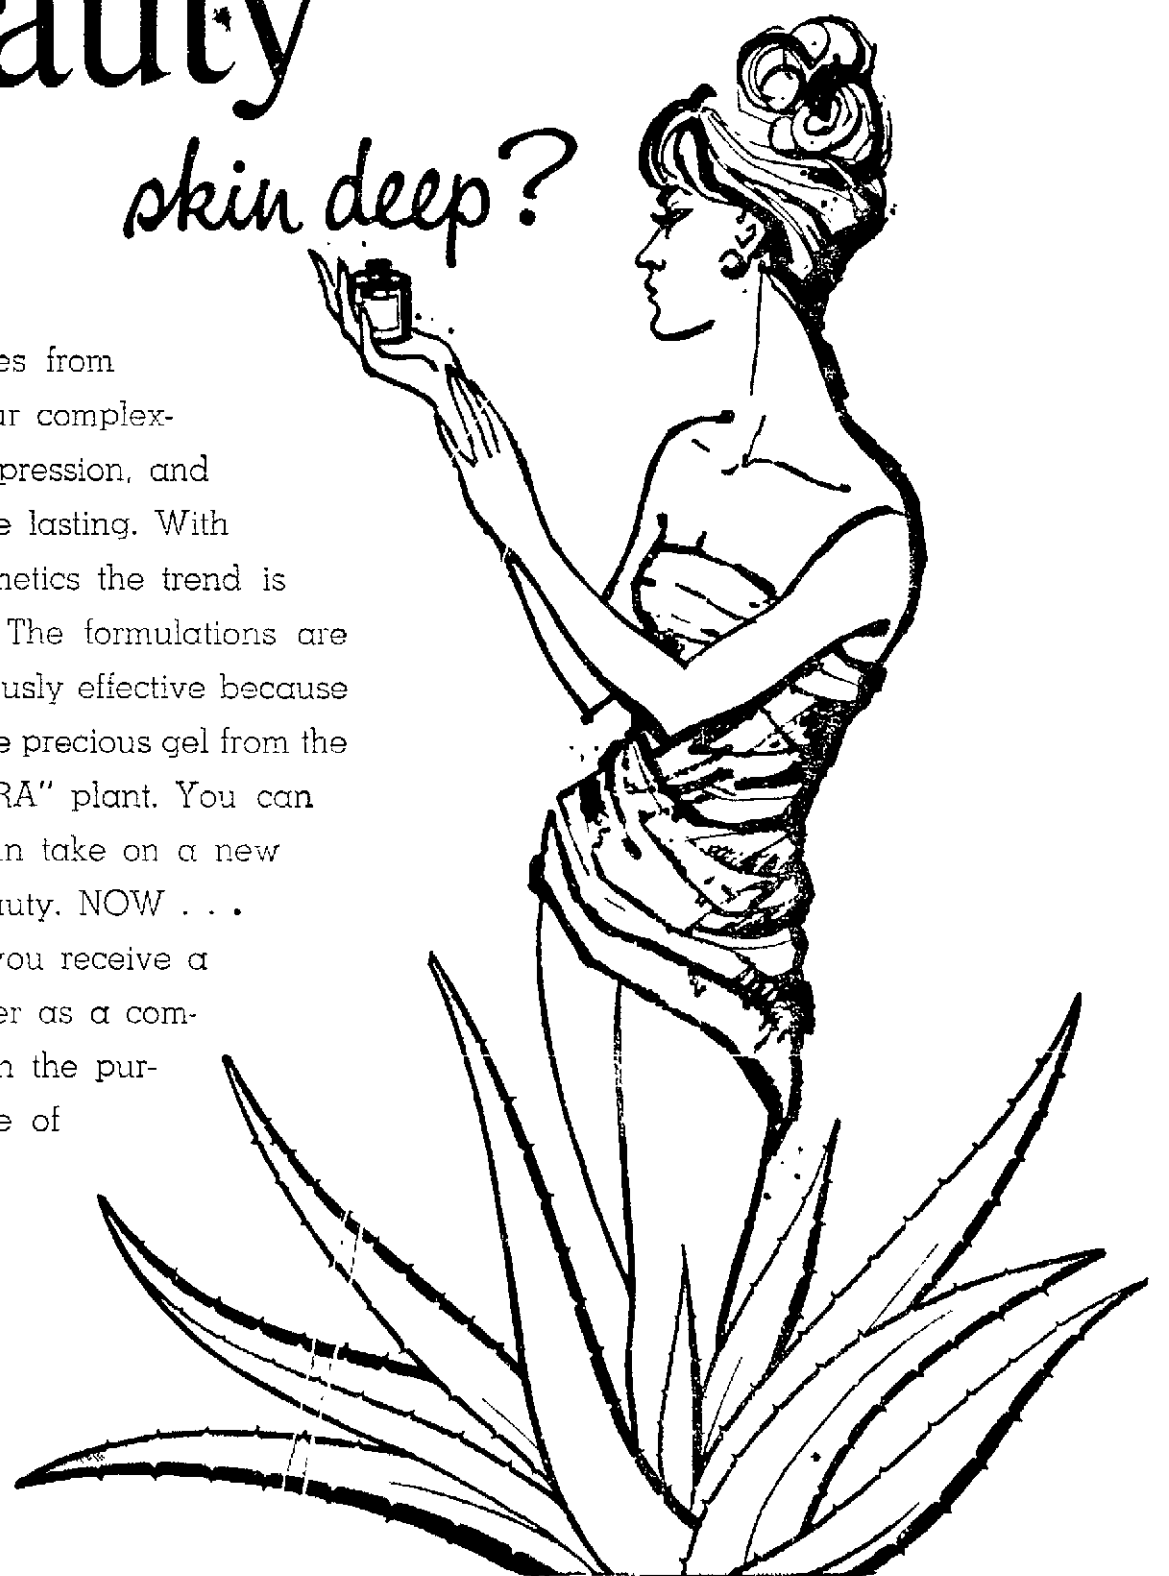

The bride-elect also was honored on Sunday, July 25, when Mrs. Wilber Anderson and Miss Mary Thorpe were co-hostesses at the home of Mrs. Anderson. During the late afternoon party, a miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Dunham by the 15 guests.

Revealing plans this morning for a late summer wedding is Miss Joyce Schelbitzki of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Schelbitzki of Strang, whose betrothal to Allen R. Hohensee was announced last spring.

party a farewell courtesy

Soon to be off and away to Seattle, Wash., and her father's alma matter, the University of Washington, is Miss G'Neil Palmer, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Raymond H. Palmer.

On Saturday evening a group of Miss Palmer's contemporaries were guests at a surprise party for which Miss Martha McCuiston was hostess at her home.

Luncheons Scheduled

Activities of the Lincoln Woman's Club for the week will include a luncheon on Wednesday for the members of the club's literature department.

The luncheon will be held at noon at the clubhouse, and reservations may be made with Mrs. Alta Angell or Mrs. Harry Dingman.

Past presidents of the club will meet for their regular summer luncheon on Friday at the home of Mrs. Harley McCoid, 425 So. 52nd.

Officers of the group are Mrs. Ray C. Johnson, president; Mrs. McCoid, vice president; and Mrs. Harry Hust, secretary.

The week's activities of

REAL ESTATE TIPS

Q. My livingroom, one bedroom, and bath needs painting. Should I spend the money and have them painted, or let the new buyers choose their own colors and go through the expense themselves?

A. PAINT THEM. It will look more "YOUR REALTOR" fresh & clean. Be sure to use a neutral pastel color even though it isn't your favorite color. The fewer things you have to apologize about while showing your home the FASTER it will sell.

A Champion's Champion

If you were to have taken a vote at the Saturday night dinner in connection with the Governor's Sweepstakes on whether Bob Astleford would play Sunday or not, the vote would have been in favor of the boys.

The reason for concern over whether Astleford would play or not was caused by his failure to qualify for the championship flight after shooting an 81 Saturday at Pioners.

But while the thought that Astleford would not be back Sunday was running through many people's minds, the thoughts of not showing up never once entered the mind of the six-time state amateur golf champion.

Astleford was not thinking about withdrawing after the 81. Instead, he was on the telephone trying to find a place to stay overnight so he would be in Lincoln to play in the first flight Sunday.

With most of the hotels and motels filled with roller skaters and swimmers, the task was not easy.

"Bob won't come back, will he?" one of the leading golfers in the state asked Saturday night. When told that he had every intention of returning, the golfer was stunned.

"I sure wouldn't if I were him," the golfer suggested. "Can you imagine a six-time state champion playing in the first flight of a weekend tournament?"

Two golfers in the championship flight quit Sunday midway through their rounds because they weren't scoring well.

You'll never see Bob Astleford pick up his ball and walk off the course. You'll never see Bob Astleford refuse to turn in his scorecard. You'll never see Bob Astleford withdraw from a tourney. You won't see it because Astleford is a champion's champion.

"Walking off the course is the easiest thing to do in golf," says Tommy Bolt, who speaks from the experience of having walked off many golf courses in the middle of a round.

"It's much easier to put the ball in your pocket and quit than it is to go on and try to get the ball in that little round hole when you're not playing well," Bolt continues.

Knew He'd Return

One person who knew Bob would be back Sunday was Dick Thoen, president of the sponsoring Lincoln Municipal Golf Association.

"I knew he'd come back," says Thoen, "because I can recall one other time when he was in similar circumstances and came back."

"Bob was just out of high school at the time and had been a real good high school player. He was medalist in qualifying for the state tournament at Hillcrest with about a 69."

"That's when it was match play and the losers in the championship flight went into the first flight. Well, Bob lost his first match on the 18th hole and dropped into the first flight."

"Everyone then thought he was going to quit, but he came back and played right through the first flight and won it."

He did the same thing the past weekend which could be the key to the Astleford success story in golf. He didn't give up when he was seven strokes down with 17 holes to go in the state tournament this year.

And he didn't give up when he landed in the first flight at the Governor's Sweepstakes. In fact, if you asked Bob Astleford to spell the word "Quit," he'd be stumped. The word is not in the Nebraska state golf champion's vocabulary.

U.S. Claims Track Effort Sabotaged By Russians

Moscow (AP)—Was the United States track and field effort sabotaged by subtle delaying and harassing tactics on the part of the Russians before the jolting American defeat last weekend in Kiev?

One of the team managers, Pete Bowen of Lyndon, Ky., made the charge Monday as the 70-member U.S. squad stopped in Moscow en route for a meet next Saturday and Sunday with Poland.

"I suspected it when we first arrived here and now I am convinced of it," the former Pittsburgh and New York Athletic Club quarter-mile said.

"It was a sly way they did it, but to me it seems unquestionable. Personally, I think it was terrible."

"The convincer was our return trip from Kiev to Moscow. When we arrived in Moscow Tuesday — the team tired and without sleep — everything possible was done to nettle them and fray their nerves."

Kiev is 475 miles from Moscow. The flying time normally is between one and 1 1/2 hours.

The sentiment was shared by some other officials and team members of the Amateur Athletic Union party but few were as outspoken as Bowen.

When the team arrived here around noon last Tuesday after an overnight flight from New York, the athletes had to remain at the airport for two hours.

Then they were put into buses and taken to a Moscow hotel for lunch, and then had to stand around the lobby for several hours before departing around 9 p.m. for Kiev.

"It would have been a simple matter for the team to have gone immediately to Kiev," Bowen insisted. "The long ride into Moscow was ridiculous."

"On top of that, the boys and girls had all of their luggage. Once they were told to put all their luggage in a bus. Then they were told to take it out. Finally they had to replace it in the bus."

There was a long wait again at the Moscow airport. We didn't get to Kiev until close to 10 o'clock. Then there was the ride to the Kiev hotel and a two-hour wait for the assignment of rooms, which could have been arranged earlier.

"You must remember that most of these people had not slept since Sunday night. They went around 35 hours without sleep."

"They were completely exhausted. Don't tell me it was just bad organization. It was all contrived."

Bowen said he found the Russians constantly doing little things to upset the morale of the squad.

The Americans scoffed at a late decision by the Russians — well after Sunday's competition was complete — to announce that the Soviet 1,600-meter relay team was being disqualified for an act of interference. It cost the Russians three points.

"They wanted to see what the total was before making an announcement," one American said. "If the meet had been close, do you think they would have done it? — not on your life."

Even without the three relay points, the Russian men won 118-112, scoring their first triumph over the Americans, while the Soviet women won 63 1/2-43 1/2.

Despite an agreement to use separate scoring for the men's and women's competitions, they used the cumulative score on the electric scoreboard throughout the meet.

After they had won, they flashed the men's and women's breakdown for the first time.

Cards Rally For 6-5 Win

St. Louis (AP) — Ted Savage's double sparked St. Louis to a two-run rally that broke a seventh-inning deadlock and carried the Cardinals to a 6-5 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Monday night.

Lions Fine Ex-Sooners In Fracas

Bloomfield Hill, Mich. (AP) — Halfback Joe Don Looney and rookie end John Flynn, involved in a wee hours restaurant fracas Sunday, were given stiff fines Monday night by Coach Harry Gilmer of the Detroit Lions.

Gilmer, sticking to a previous pledge, declined to divulge the amount of the fines.

A Lions' spokesman, making the announcement for Gilmer, indicated the coach handed down the penalties as much for the violation of the team curfew by Looney and Flynn as for the 3 a.m. cafe incident in nearby Royal Oak.

Looney, already known as a National Football League problem boy, and Flynn figured in a ruckus to which police were called. Police said there was a dispute over whether the two players had paid a $3.38 bill.

Though police intervened, no charges were filed from the incident.

Gilmer assessed the fines after meeting in private with Looney and Flynn. He said earlier that if he were to fine the players, he would not make the amount of the fines public.

"That's no one's business," Gilmer said.

Gilmer reprimanded Looney and Flynn for missing the team bed check Saturday night. The 11 p.m. curfew had been extended 1 1/2 hours because rookies in the Lion camp had completed their first week of drill.

Looney was bounced out of Oklahoma in 1963 after a scuffle with an assistant coach.

He was acquired this year by the Lions from Baltimore.

"I've got a job for him," Gilmer explained. "He could be a vital part of what we want to do this season. If he is man enough, he'll get the job done. If not, he'll fall by the wayside. It's that simple."

Looney told police an unidentified man, who reportedly was the husband of a waitress at the restaurant, pulled a knife and pointed it at his stomach.

The man, Looney said, followed them out of the restaurant just as police arrived. Looney said the man continued to taunt him but went back into the restaurant as he and Flynn were taken to jail.

The fracas started when Looney and Flynn were stopped at the door on their way out of the restaurant by a cashier who claimed they had not paid their bill.

Looney said they had left the money on the counter. But he said Flynn told him some people saw some kids take the money off the counter.

Looney, 23, was fined $150 by the Colts last year for kicking in the door of a young couple's apartment.

Flynn, 22, is also from Oklahoma.

5 Share Medal Honors In Gals' Western Junior

Lake Forest, Ill. (AP) — Medal honors were shared by five girls in the qualifying round of the Women's Western Junior Golf Championship at the Onwentsia club Monday.

Not one in the field of 60 girls at 17 and under were able to come close to matching a par of 37-37.4 over the 6,066-yard course and a five-over-par 79 was good for a medal share.

The medalists were Jane Bastenchnur, Whittier, Calif., 38-41-79; Carmen Piaseck, South Bend, Ind., 39-40-79; Jacqueline Flados, Dubuque, Iowa, 38-41-79; Candace Michaeloff, Minneapolis, 38-41-79, and Kristen Gilbertson, Stillwater, Minn., 39-40-79.

Susie Kunc Named NU Baton Artist

An 18-year-old Wilber coed, Susie Kunc, is the University of Nebraska's new Sunshine Girl succeeding Joyce Burns Thimman of Lincoln, the Cornhuskers' first feminine baton twirler.

Miss Kunc, will make her debut with the Cornhusker Marching Band in halftime ceremonies when Nebraska plays Texas Christian University in Memorial Stadium Sept. 18.

Jack Snider, director of the Cornhusker Marching Band, said Miss Kunc was selected from a field of 28 applicants from Nebraska, New York, Ohio, Iowa, and Colorado. She was judged the best all-around twirler in the group.

A veteran of eight years of twirling, Susie has won numerous awards including state twirling and strutting championships, Miss Personality and Miss Majorette titles, and several queen and princess awards.

LOONEY . . . Another fracas.

Lincoln Gerry's Ousted In Extra-Inning Contest

... TWO OMAHA TEAMS SCORE WINS

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer

York—Omaha Pepsi and Omaha Philipstons survived extra-innings thrillers to keep their State American Legion Junior baseball title hopes alive Monday night.

Philipstons rallied for three runs in the bottom of the 12th to sideline Lincoln Gerry's 8-7, and Pepsi scored a single run in the bottom of the tenth to eliminate North Platte, 4-3.

In the all important toss of the coin after Monday's play, Philipstons earned a bye Tuesday night while Pepsi will go against unbeaten Grand Island, a team which whipped the Omaha entry, 10-7, Sunday night.

five innings for Gerry's and left with a 3-2 lead. Coach Dave Myers then went to Mike Delaney, who had shut out Norfolk Sunday, for the two and one-third innings that he had remaining under the 12-inning limit.

He left with the score knotted at 5-5 and lefthander Mike Bouman was called in.

Bouman used up his three and two-thirds innings after the 11th inning and Hansen had to come back from right-field to finish up.

He struck out leadoff man Buddy Hunter but then lost his control and walked Jerry Ritonya and Mike Churchich. Jim Macaitis beat out an infield single to load the bases but Hansen got Dan Klepper on a pop up and looked like he might be out of trouble.

Then Teddy Drefs stroked a two-run single into rightfield to tie the count. Stan Zbylut, hitless in 12 previous tourney appearances, blooped a soft liner over second baseman Frank Brill's head to score Macaitis and give the win to Philipstons.

Pepsi 4, North Platte 3

Frank Stanek shed his goat horns as he blasted a line drive into centerfield to score Larry Gomez in the bottom tenth inning to give Pepsi its victory.

Stanek had a chance to score the winning run for Pepsi in the eighth inning after he singled and Emil Boryca doubled to left center. But he hesitated as he rounded third base and was cut down by the relay thrown by Larry Vlasin to catcher Bill Cotton.

Gomez singled with one out in the 10th and was sacrificed to second base by Chuck Vacek. North Platte coach George Lebedz then elected to have pitcher Tom McMurtry walk lefty Bill Myers to pitch to Stanek.

Stanek ruined the strategy with his third hit and third run batted in of the contest.

Bateman To Play In USGA Junior

Wilmington, Del. (AP) — Some 150 youngsters start play Tuesday in the qualifying rounds of the U.S. Golf Association Junior National Tournament here.

The field will be narrowed to 64 in preliminary rounds ending Wednesday at the Wilmington Country Club.

Two rounds of match play are scheduled Thursday through Saturday to determine the winner.

John Miller of San Francisco, Calif., was last year's victor. He has passed the maximum age of 18 and will not be defending his title.

Ashe, Ralston Give U.S. Davis Cup Win

... MEXICO CRUSHED; SPAIN IS NEXT

Dallas, Tex. (AP)—Arthur Ashe and Dennis Ralston scored a pair of resounding singles victories Monday as the U.S. Davis Cup team crushed Mexico in the American Zone finals.

To Ashe, the No. 2 player, fell the opportunity of clinching the prestigious championship and he responded by cutting down Mexico's Antonio Palafox 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

With the title assured, Ralston came on in the final match to clobber Rafael Osuna in similar fashion, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4.

The twin triumph gave the Americans a sweep in singles competition and a 4-1 edge in the final standings. It earned them a berth against Spain in the interzone round at Barcelona later this month.

Ashe, soft-spoken young Negro with much potential still untapped, overshadowed his top-ranked teammate and was clearly the hero of the three-day event.

He crippled the Mexican bid in the opening match with a stunning defeat of Osuna and then, with the pressure mounting, scored the decisive victory against Palafox.

Ralston encountered what appeared to be an unopposed effort by Osuna in the last contest and was never extended en route to the decision.

Ralston cruised through the first set permitting the hapless Osuna but six points in all. Ralston once took 10 straight points, which included a break in Osuna's service with a love game.

Ashe was devastating from the service line, 12 times scorching across aces and on eight occasions firing in serves that Palafox was unable to return.

At one point, Ashe, 22, aces his bewildered opponent four straight times for a love game and prompted Palafox to acknowledge the feat by a jestful bow.

Perhaps the closest Ashe came to an unpleasant moment was in the first game of the first set, when he fell behind 0-30 on his own service. But from that point on, there was little doubt as to the outcome.

Playing the Point O' Woods par 35-36-71 course in a driving wind, Smith reached the 440-yard extra hole in regulation two.

In blasting out, his ball sailed 20 yards over the green and left him 40 feet past the pin coming back.

Smith was down in two putts for a par four, and the championship.

Braves Tip Giants On Gonder Hit

Milwaukee (AP)—Jesse Gonder ripped a pinch double with the bases loaded in the fourth inning scoring three runs and carrying the Milwaukee Braves to a 4-2 victory over the San Francisco Giants Monday night.

Gonder, acquired recently from the New York Mets for pinch hitting duties, tagged the first pitch served him by Giant starter Gaylord Perry, who is 0-7 lifetime against the Braves.

Felipe Alou later singled in the fourth run of the inning giving Gonder's pinch hit the first pitch served him by Giant starter Gaylord Perry, who is 0-7 lifetime against the Braves.

Wilhelm, Ward Pace Chisox Win

Chicago (AP)—Pete Ward's two-run single and clutch rehelm gave the Chicago White Sox a 2-0 victory over Detroit Monday night.

Ward delivered his key hit in the first inning after Tom McCraw and Don Buford had singled and moved up on John Romano's sacrifice.

Gary Peters made the runs stand up and is working on a five-hitter going into the eighth inning. But singles by Don Wert and Jerry Lumpe with one out brought on Wilhelm and the veteran relief pitcher retired the next two men, ending the threat.

Hall's Homer Stops Orioles

... KILLEBREW INJURED

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP)—Jimmie Hall, a pinch hitter, walloped a home run in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Minnesota Twins a 6-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Monday.

Hall's homer ruined a dramatic last ditch comeback by the Orioles, who had tied the score at 5-5 on Dick Brown's three-run homer with two out in the top of the ninth.

The victory, which restored the Twins' American League lead to six games over the Orioles, was costly, however.

Harmon Killebrew, leading the Twins in runs batted in with 70 and tied for the league lead in home runs with 22, suffered a dislocated left elbow in a basepath collision with Baltimore's Russ Snyder in the sixth inning.

Killebrew likely will be lost for at least two weeks.

Southpaw Jim Merritt, in his first appearance since his recall from Denver, held the Orioles to six hits and appeared headed for the victory going into the ninth.

But with one out, Bob Johnson got a bunt single and, after Carl Warwick had fouled out, Brown slammed a home run over the left field fence to tie the score.

Klippstein was due to be the first Twins' hitter in the bottom of the ninth, but Manager Sam Mele sent Hall to bat for him, and Jimmie responded by hitting a 1-2 pitch about 360 feet over the left field fence.

Cardinals Rehire Red Schoendienst For '66 Season

St. Louis (AP)—The world champion St. Louis Cardinals, now mired in seventh place, relieved Manager Red Schoendienst of the blame Monday by rehiring him for the 1966 season.

The vote of confidence ended speculation that the 42-year-old Schoendienst might be replaced during this, his first year as a manager.

It also avoided the possibility of a repeat of last season's embarrassing situation when the Cardinals surged to win the pennant and the World Series after General Manager Bing Devine was fired and Manager Johnny Keane was reported out and Leo Durocher in.

Keane, bothered by the rumors that he would have been fired had the club not won, quit after the season and became manager of the New York Yankees.

Florida Railway Starts Again, Claims Sabotage

Miami, Fla. (AP)—The Florida East Coast Railway, torn by violence in a 30-month strike, resumed passenger service Monday and almost immediately claimed an attempt was made to derail one of the trains.

W. L. Thornton of St. Augustine, president of the FEC, said spikes were pulled from 60 feet of rail near Stuart, 100 miles north of Miami, on the southbound track.

The spikes were not at the scene, Thornton said. Without detection of the missing spikes, he said, the southbound Jacksonville to Miami passenger train would have been derailed.

Foreman Noticed

he noticed the spikes missing.

"With over 300 acts of sabotage since the strike started, evidently a good many criminals are trying to wreck trains," said Ed Ball, FEC board chairman. "They don't seem to care whether they kill people or not."

Railroad detectives and the FBI completed an investigation 30 minutes before the southbound train reached the spot where the spikes had been pulled out and replaced.

Ball's claim of sabotage on the southbound line caused no concern among passengers on the northbound train.

No More Wrecks

"I wouldn't believe it for a minute," said Charles Strum, Pompano Beach advertising man. "An Atlantic Coast Line railroad man told me just the other day at Deland that Ed Ball has already blown up all his old worn out equipment. They aren't going to wreck any more trains."

About a dozen persons, mostly newsmen, were on each train when it departed. Several dozen other paying passengers were picked up en route.

Miami Mayor Robert King High traveled northward from Miami to West Palm Beach where he got off to fly home to greet the southbound train.

While he was on the train, High saw a pamphlet warning passengers they traveled at their own risk. Similar warnings were posted at the North Miami depot.

'Unbelievable'

"It's unbelievable that they would try to scare passengers this way," said High.

Another passenger, Mrs. Lynwood Smith of Palatka, Fla., said she had no fear of the train ride.

"Afraid?" said Mrs. Smith. "Heck no. This is safer than my driving. My husband bought me a new car and I had it only three weeks before I smashed it into a bridge—$800 damage."

"My husband said if Mayor High thought he could ride the train safely, I could too." She went to Pompano Beach to get her daughter Kathy, 7, who was visiting.

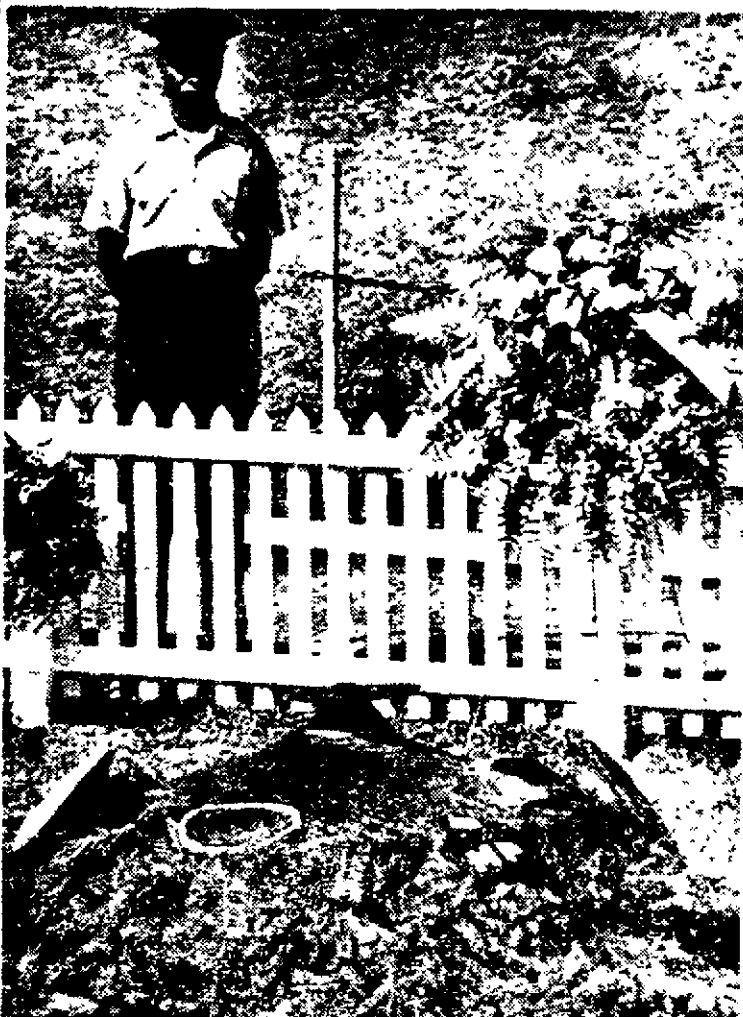

No Guarantee

The FEC was ordered to resume service by the Florida Supreme Court, an order Thornton viewed reluctantly, saying "This railroad cannot guarantee its passengers against the dangers of criminal acts, sabotage and vandalism."

Dan K. Campbell of Miami, district representative of the striking Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, also discounted the FEC's charge that saboteurs had yanked the spikes.

"We're always a bit skeptical of what the railroad says about these things. From past experience we know that many of them are ordinary accidents and failures due to lack of maintenance," said Campbell.

He said the constant running of trains exerts pressure which can work spikes loose from the roadbed.

Hill-Burton Decisions Will Be Set On Friday

The Nebraska Hospital Advisory Council will meet Friday to set priorities for dispersal of federal Hill-Burton hospital construction funds for the fiscal year which began last month.

The public hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in the Capitol.

State Health Department officials said the federal fund will be exhausted on the projects which have been given "A" priority by the department.

Applications for Hill-Burton funds have been filed for 23 hospital and nursing home projects in 18 cities and towns. Nebraska received $1,203,272 in Hill-Burton funds for last year, and Health Department officials expect to receive just as much this year.

The Advisory Council makes recommendations on the dispersal of the federal funds, and the State Board of Health has the final word.

The projects up for consideration at Friday's hearing, listed by priority as determined by the department and including the name of the facility, total cost of project and requested federal share, are:

"A" Priority Projects

General Hospital Construction Funds

Humboldt Community Memorial Hospital, $302,000, $200,000

Phelps County Memorial Hospital at Belleville, $200,000, $200,000

St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Lincoln, $5,410,000, $1,750,000.

Attack By Beam Is Called 'Lowest Blow'

A Nebraska Agresearch Advisory Committee member Monday labeled Arlen Beam's attack on the integrity of the scientific team which evaluated the Agresearch program as one of the "lowest blows in the state's political history."

Maynard Jensen, committee member from Aurora, said Beam "simply didn't know what he was talking about" when he charged the evaluation team "whitewashed" the program in its report.

The three-member evaluation team was headed by Dr. Jesse Hobson, noted scientist and vice president of Southern Methodist University.

Beam is Lancaster County Republican chairman.

Jensen said the advisory committee was "unanimous in approving the evaluation study and the men making the study."

"For Beam to suggest that they would not give a fair evaluation to what Nebraska has been doing, we believe, constitutes a slur on their personal qualifications and upon the business and educational institutions with which they are associated," Jensen said.

He said the committee agrees that charges such as made by Beam "seriously hamper the work of the state to attract new industries and Beam will have to answer every citizen for the untold damage he has done to our industrial development work."

The Hobson Report on Nebraska's five-year-old Agresearch program was generally favorable, indicating benefits that could be anticipated would exceed the dollar investment of $1.5 million thus far.

NU Police See Theft Attempt At ATO House

University of Nebraska police say they found three persons trying to steal several armloads of canned goods from the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, 1433 R.

Police said that the persons were seen leaving the back door of the fraternity and ran from the scene as the University police saw them.

The food was recovered, but the three parties were not apprehended.

Power Units Urged To Cooperate

The chairman of the Nebraska Power Review Board Monday called for immediate cooperation between the three major power agencies which will have to merge their wholesale operations by July, 1966.

William Norton of Osceola said cooperation between the utilities prior to the merger is a must if public power planning and development are to continue at a steady pace.

"Right now we're in a period of limbo, and no one knows what will transpire until July of 1966 when the merger is effective," said Norton. "This is the time for the three districts to work out some kind of agreement so normal power activities will not be impeded."

Plan Urged

He called on officials of the three power agencies affected—Consumers Public Power District, Loup River Public Power District and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District—to meet this month to map a plan of cooperation.

He said a probable court test of the merger law need not deter efforts at cooperation.

He said millions of dollars worth of power facilities construction should be commenced during the one-year period prior to the merger and full cooperation between the three districts will be necessary to realize the construction.

The Legislature last week passed a bill, LB764, merging the wholesale operations of Consumers, Loup and Platte Valley under the control of a single board of directors.

At Odds

Loup and Platte Valley, which form the Nebraska Public Power System, opposed the bill and have on numerous occasions been at odds with Consumers.

Norton said the three districts will be hesitant to proceed with their previous construction plans because of the merger law unless their differences are ironed out.

Bank Clearings Decline In July

The total for this year, January through July, is $377,196,418.

Facts About Fort Robinson 'Not Told'

By GLENN KREUSCHER Farm Editor

The state project leader for beef research, Prof. Layton J. Sumption, said Monday that it is unfortunate that the facts are not being told about the U.S. Department of Agriculture's federal beef research station at Fort Robinson.

"The statement about the station's bull herd being turned into an area next to campers for the first time in years is really not so."

"This area has been used for 16 years and has been the location where bulls that have finished experimental work are maintained until they are sold," said Sumption.

Sumption said that reports on cutting off the flapole would have some people believing a flapole no longer exists at Fort Robinson.

10 Feet Taken Off

"What really happened was that 10 feet were taken off the top of a 90-foot pole because the steeplejack wouldn't climb the last ten feet because of a damaged pole, but the flag still flies 80 feet from the research station be maintained in a range area."

Lin Helton, manager of the Sandhills Cattle Association at Valentine, says there are unsurpassed facilities for both beef cattle research and tourism at Fort Robinson and there is room for both.

Sandhills ranchers have pointed out that with more than 40% of the state income coming from beef cattle it is important that a beef cattle research station be maintained at Fort Robinson in Nebraska.

"We Need Both"

The ranchers have questioned how range studies could be conducted for the state's important rangeland area at the Hastings research site. "We need both Hastings and Fort Robinson in Nebraska," said Helton.

Florida Railway Starts Again, Claims Sabotage

Miami, Fla. (AP)—The Florida East Coast Railway, torn by violence in a 30-month strike, resumed passenger service Monday and almost immediately claimed an attempt was made to derail one of the trains.

W. L. Thornton of St. Augustine, president of the FEC, said spikes were pulled from 60 feet of rail near Stuart, 100 miles north of Miami, on the southbound track.

The spikes were not at the scene, Thornton said. Without detection of the missing spikes, he said, the southbound Jacksonville to Miami passenger train would have been derailed.

Foreman Noticed

The sabotage attempt apparently occurred shortly after the southbound passenger train left Jacksonville at 9:40 a.m., he said. A foreman said he noticed the spikes missing.

"With over 300 acts of sabotage since the strike started, evidently a good many criminals are trying to wreck trains," said Ed Ball, FEC board chairman. "They don't seem to care whether they kill people or not."

Railroad detectives and the FBI completed an investigation 30 minutes before the southbound train reached the spot where the spikes had been pulled out and replaced.

Ball's claim of sabotage on the southbound line caused no concern among passengers on the northbound train.

No More Wrecks

"I wouldn't believe it for a minute," said Charles Strum, Pompano Beach advertising man. "An Atlantic Coast Line railroad man told me just the other day at Deland that Ed Ball has already blown up all his old worn out equipment. They aren't going to wreck any more trains."

About a dozen persons, mostly newsmen, were on each train when it departed. Several dozen other paying passengers were picked up en route.

Miami Mayor Robert King High traveled northward from Miami to West Palm Beach where he got off to fly home to greet the southbound train.

While he was on the train, High saw a pamphlet warning passengers they traveled at their own risk. Similar warnings were posted at the North Miami depot.

'Unbelievable'

"It's unbelievable that they would try to scare passengers this way," said High.

Another passenger, Mrs. Lynwood Smith of Palatka, Fla., said she had no fear of the train ride.

'Afraid?' said Mrs. Smith. "Heck no. This is safer than my driving. My husband bought me a new car and I had it only three weeks before I smashed it into a bridge — $800 damage."

"My husband said if Mayor High thought he could ride the train safely, I could too," she went to Pompano Beach to get her daughter Kathy, 7, who was visiting.

No Guarantee

The FEC was ordered to resume service by the Florida Supreme Court, an order Thornton viewed reluctantly, saying: "This railroad cannot guarantee its passengers against the dangers of criminal acts, sabotage and vandalism."

Don K. Campbell of Miami, district representative of the striking Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, also discounted the FEC's charge that saboteurs had yanked the spikes.

"We're always a bit skeptical of what the railroad says about these things. From past experience we know that many of them are ordinary accidents and failures due to lack of maintenance," said Campbell.

He said the constant running of trains exerts pressure which can work spikes loose from the roadbed.

Hill-Burton Decisions Will Be Set On Friday

The Nebraska Hospital Advisory Council will meet Friday to set priorities for dispersal of federal Hill-Burton hospital construction funds for the fiscal year which began last month.

The public hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in the Capitol.

State Health Department officials said the federal fund will be exhausted on the projects which have been given "A" priority by the department.

Applications for Hill-Burton funds have been filed for 23 hospital and nursing home projects in 18 cities and towns. Nebraska received $1,203,272 in Hill-Burton funds for last year, and Health Department officials expect to receive just as much this year.

The Advisory Council makes recommendations on the dispersal of the federal funds, and the State Board of Health has the final word.

The projects up for consideration at Friday's hearing, listed by priority as determined by the department and including the name of the facility, total cost of project and requested federal share, are:

"A" Priority Projects

General Hospital Construction Funds: Humboldt Community Memorial Hospital: $302,000, $200,000; Phelps County Memorial Hospital at Holdrege: $501,000, $330,000; Lincoln General Hospital: $6,468,000, $2,400,000; Brown County Hospital at Ainsworth: $400,000, $150,000; Plainview General Hospital: $450,000, $150,000; Lutheran Medical Center in Omaha: $4,748,000, $1,319,000; Jefferson County Memorial Hospital at Fairbury: $368,000, $147,000; Long-term care facilities (additions to present hospitals): Community Memorial Hospital at Burwell: $232,000, $92,000; Cambridge Memorial Hospital: $269,000, $108,000; Memorial Deaconess Home and Hospital at Beatrice: $580,000, $348,000; Deuel County Nursing Home at Chapin: $200,000, $75,000; Sacred Heart Hospital at Loup City: $125,000, $68,000; Immanuel Deaconess Institute at Omaha: $3,511,000, $1,355,000; Johnson County Hospital at Tecumseh: $204,000, $87,000.

"B" Priority Projects

General Hospital Construction Funds: Crawford Community Memorial Hospital: $37,000, $15,000; Mary Lanning Memorial Hospital at Hastings: $2,063,000, $770,000; St. Catherine's Hospital at McCook: $330,000, $132,000; Ocalata Community Hospital: $570,000, $228,000; Bishop Clarkson Memorial Hospital at Omaha: $5,600,000, $2,320,000; Long-term care facilities (additions to present hospitals): Tabitha Home at Lincoln: $1,069,000, $387,000.

Other projects up for consideration: Brodstone Memorial Hospital at Superior: $854,000, $342,000; St. Elizabeth Hospital at Lincoln: $6,410,000, $1,750,000.

Attack By Beam Is Called 'Lowest Blow'

A Nebraska Agresearch Advisory Committee member Monday labeled Arlen Beam's attack on the integrity of the scientific team which evaluated the Agresearch program as one of the "lowest blows in the state's political history."

Maynard Jensen, committee member from Aurora, said Beam "simply didn't know what he was talking about" when he charged the evaluation team "whitewashed" the program in its report.

The three-member evaluation team was headed by Dr. Jesse Hobson, noted scientist and vice president of Southern Methodist University.

Beam is Lancaster County Republican chairman.

Jensen said the advisory committee was "unanimous in approving the evaluation study and the men making the study."

"For Beam to suggest that they would not give a fair evaluation to what Nebraska has been doing, we believe, constitutes a slur on their personal qualifications and upon the business and educational institutions with which they are associated," Jensen said.

He said the committee agrees that charges such as made by Beam "seriously hamper the work of the state to attract new industries and Beam will have to answer every citizen for the untold damage he has done to our industrial development work."

The Hobson Report on Nebraska's five-year-old Agresearch program was generally favorable, indicating benefits that could be anticipated would exceed the dollar investment of $1.5 million thus far.

NU Police See Theft Attempt At ATO House

University of Nebraska police say they found three persons trying to steal several armloads of canned goods from the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, 1433 R.

Police said that the persons were seen leaving the back door of the fraternity and ran from the scene as the University police saw them.

The food was recovered, but the three parties were not apprehended.

Power Units Urged To Cooperate

The chairman of the Nebraska Power Review Board Monday called for immediate cooperation between the three major power agencies which will have to merge their wholesale operations by July, 1966.

William Norton of Osceola said cooperation between the utilities prior to the merger is a must if public power planning and development are to continue at a steady pace.

"Right now we're in a period of limbo, and no one knows what will transpire until July of 1966 when the merger is effective," said Norton.

"This is the time for the three districts to work out some kind of agreement so normal power activities will not be impeded."

test of the merger law need not deter efforts at cooperation.

He said millions of dollars worth of power facilities construction should be commenced during the one-year period prior to the merger and full cooperation between the three districts will be necessary to realize the construction.

The Legislature last week passed a bill, LB764, merging the wholesale operations of Consumers, Loup and Platte Valley under the control of a single board of directors.

At Odds

Loup and Platte Valley, which form the Nebraska Public Power System, opposed the bill and have on numerous occasions been at odds with Consumers.

Norton said the three districts will be hesitant to proceed with their previous construction plans because of the merger law unless their differences are ironed out.

Bank Clearings Decline In July

Lincoln's three downtown banks reported that July 1965 bank clearings totaled $56,898,472, compared with $66,259,968 for the same month in 1964.

The total for this year, January through July, is $377,196,418.

U.S. Politicians Watch New York Race Closely

... EDGE TO LINDSAY; DEMOS IN 4-WAY FEUD

By JOHN MORGANTHALER
New York (AP)—It's a strange and confused campaign for mayor in this teeming, troubled city. The citizenry isn't much aroused yet, but the nation's politicians are watching closely.

In a city that is more than 3 to 1 Democratic, the polls give the edge at this early date to a Republican, John V. Lindsay, a rising young congressman anxious to erase the national political scene.

Three-term Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner is bowing out—possibly to run next year for governor against the Republican incumbent, Nelson Rockefeller—and the city Democrats have split into four warring camps.

The candidates for the Democratic nomination — none widely known before the campaign — are Paul R. Screvane, Abraham Beame, William F. Ryan and Paul O'Dwyer.

President Johnson and Sen.

Robert F. Kennedy are keeping hands off until after the Sept. 14 primary. Wagner says he will endorse somebody at the proper time, and everybody expects it to be Screvane.

Lindsay casts himself as the underdog.

Another factor, of unknown proportions, is the candidacy of William F. Buckley Jr., 39, editor of the National Review and candidate of the Conservative Party, a group which splintered from the GOP. Buckley denies that he entered the race to defeat Lindsay because he refused to support Barry Goldwater last year.

Offsetting Buckley, Lindsay won the endorsement of the Liberal Party, a Democratic splinter group dominated by labor unions. Both the Conservative and Liberal Parties exist only in New York.

Lindsay also has the endorsement and financial backing of Rockefeller, and the important support of Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

The lanky, handsome congressman has been campaigning hard since May 14. He is staging a nonpartisan "fusion" campaign, the only chance a Republican has. The political strategy succeeded for the late Fiorello La Guardia, the last Republican mayor, who served three terms ending in 1945.

As running mates, Lindsay has Timothy Costello, the Liberal Party's state chairman, and Milton Mollen, a Democrat who resigned as housing administrator for Wagner.

With a Kennedy-like campaign technique, Lindsay mixes athletic good looks, a handsome family, humor and intellectual charm. He has appeared in white tie, suits, shirt sleeves, swim suits, on foot and horseback. He's done the twist, a Greek folk dance and some spring-board dives.

Lindsay started out flailing away at Wagner, his supposed opponent, whose popularity was shipping in a rash of crime, racial trouble, air pollution, drought and money shortages.

But on June 11, Wagner announced he wouldn't run, fulfilling a promise made to his late wife, he said. His popularity immediately rose, and took on new luster July 26 with his marriage to blonde, blue-blooded Barbara Cavanaugh.

With Wagner out and the Democrats in disarray, Lindsay pulled a coup by getting the Liberal Party nod. It had been sure to go to Wagner.

By July 23, the Lindsay camp was promising to continue the "warm, humanitarian" administration of Wagner, and it was the Democrats who were trying to disown the old administration.

The Democratic contenders are:

—Screvane, 50, in city employ for 29 years, rising from garbage man to become City Council president and Wagner's right-hand man. He has organized backing in Manhattan, Queens and Staten Island, and lately has picked up some support from the reform wing of the party.

Beame, 59, controller under Wagner but sharp critic of his fiscal policy, who has been endorsed by some Wagner opponents — Charles Buckley of the Bronx, Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem and Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn.

—Ryan, 43, a Manhattan congressman from the reform wing, who says Screvane and Beame are both backed by different sets of bosses, and calls them "Tweedledum and Tweedledee."

—O'Dwyer, 57, Irish-born brother of a former mayor, and a councilman-at-large from Manhattan, competing with Ryan for the reform vote, but claiming wide backing for his labor union and civil rights activities outside the reform movement.

GOP Dignitaries Due At Ceremony Honoring Ross
Omaha (AP)—National Republican Chairman Ray Bliss will head a list of speakers Tuesday night at a testimonial dinner honoring Nebraska National Committeeman Donald R. Ross.

Ross has represented Nebraska on the national committee since January, 1958. He is a former mayor of Lexington, Neb., and former U.S. attorney in Omaha.

Other speakers will include Nebraska Senators Hruska and Curtis.

Bliss arrives at 2 p.m. Tuesday for his first official visit to Nebraska since becoming national chairman in April.

Liquor, Beer Permits Taken Away 10 Days
Lancaster District Judge William Hastings Monday signed orders stipulating that the retail package liquor license held by Richard L. and Susan A. Stoehr which is now S & M Inc. and the retail beer license of Ralph E. and Donna Jean Beccard each be suspended for 10 days beginning Aug. 7.

The suspensions, in effect, uphold the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission's ruling that the retailers were selling liquor and beer wholesale without a wholesaler's license to East Hills Super Club.

The retailers had appealed the ruling which suspended each of them for 21 days.

Leadership Of Super-Gang Linking Mafia, U.S. Cosa Nostra Smashed

Palermo, Sicily (AP)—Italian authorities announced Monday they had smashed the leadership of an international super-gang linking the Sicilian Mafia and the American Cosa Nostra.

A series of lightning pre-dawn police raids from Bologna in north Italy to Taormina in eastern Sicily preceded the announcement and marked a new chapter in the war against the international underworld.

Police on both sides of the Atlantic had long talked of ties between the centuries-old Mafia and the postwar Cosa Nostra. But never before had authorities claimed enough evidence of such links to obtain arrest warrants.

Luciano Heir

The Palermo public prosecutor issued 14 warrants, and the police raids promptly netted 10 suspects—including the reputed head of the Mafia and an Italian-American once rumored to be Charles "Lucky" Luciano's heir. All 14 were born in Italy, with eight having U.S. backgrounds.

International police were asked to help find the other four suspects, three described as U.S. citizens.

The police raids were planned minutely. At a pre-dawn zero hour the heavily armed police teams swept into action simultaneously. At a Bologna eye clinic they picked up Giuseppe Genco Russo, 72, long reputed to be the head of the Mafia and a power in the international underworld.

Asleep On Farm
Outside Rome they moved in on a villa owned by Frank "Three Fingers" Coppola, 75, a Sicilian who was deported in 1948 from the United States. He had been active in Kansas City. But Coppola, once said to be Luciano's heir, was not at home. His wife and children said they did not know his whereabouts. The authorities traced him to a nearby farm, where they found him in bed asleep.

Seven other suspects were picked up in other areas. Among the seven were three others who had lived in the United States.

The 14 were charged with associating to commit crime. Various individual allegations against them included narcotics, currency and tobacco smuggling, and bombings.

But police seemed to be more interested in the broad ramifications of the gang, rather than in specifics. Francesco Interrisi, Palermo police chief, said some of the 14 were involved in some way in the 1957 underworld convention at Appalachen, N.Y. He said several "pre-conventions" were held in Palermo police chief, said some of the 14 were involved in some way in the 1957 underworld convention at Appalachen, N.Y. He said several "pre-conventions" were held in Palermo prior to the Appalachen hide-out. None of the 14 named, however, appeared on the New York state police list of 53 at Appalachen.

Police said their investigation showed how the Mafia and Cosa Nostra exchanged plans, men and equipment. It was described as a two-way traffic, with the Mafia taking up some of the modern American rackets.

Police said the super-gang was made up of gangs linked in a sort of "federal pact" with the 14 named its leaders.

Root, Cooperation

Police said that it was not a case of the Italian-American underground being a subsidiary of the Mafia, but of the two undergrounds stemming from the same root and cooperating.

Police said it was difficult to crack the gang because it had a powerful and efficient organization that helped its members elude police. But authorities said they were able to watch a number of the U.S. gang members who came to Sicily as "tourists" to contact local underworld figures.

The police report on the super-gang began taking shape during an anti-Mafia police crackdown launched in 1963 after several police were killed in a Palermo bombing.

Young, Mature Crimes

Parliament Fights Stopped By Police

Athens, Greece (AP)—Police rushed into parliament Monday night and broke up fist fights between opposing deputies during a debate on a confidence motion for Premier George Athanasiadis Novas' government.

While bedlam reigned inside parliament, about 2,000 backers of George Papandreu, ousted by King Constantine July 15 in a dispute over control of the armed forces, shouted antigovernment slogans outside.

Papandreu had prevented a quorum Friday night when the government sought its first vote of confidence. But he sent his Center Union deputies back Monday night, hoping to hasten debate and overthrow the government. A vote on the confidence motion is expected later this week.

As Athanasiadis Novas read his government's policy statement, Papandreu's deputies shouted and banged their desks top. Speaker Emmanuel Baklatzis called repeatedly for order, but to no avail.

The premier continued and finished reading his government's statement. The free-for-all began when the National Radical Union leader, Panayiotis Cannelopoulos, a rightist, delivered a blistering speech against Papandreu. Cannelopoulos noted that Papandreu's Center Union Party backers were present but not Papandreu himself. He said the former premier's refusal to attend and hear the debate was "an admission of guilt" in the crisis that has rocked Greece since mid-July.

Center Union deputies rose in their seats and screamed at Cannelopoulos. Rightist deputies banged on their desks. Some raced over to the Center Union benches and fists began to fly.

Police moved in and the melee ended in five minutes.

Ringed Building

Outside parliament, several thousand police ringed the grounds of the yellow stone parliament building. The entire block was roped off, and riot squads sat in halftracks down the street with tear gas bombs aboard.

Demonstrators have been active in the streets for Papandreu ever since King Constantine fired him and installed Athanasiadis Novas.

Blocks away from the parliament building, several thousand leftists attended a memorial service in a downtown theater for Solon Petroulas, a student killed in Athens street rioting following Papandreu's fall.

Speaker Baklatzis adjourned parliament until Tuesday night after five hours of debate. Some deputies said the confidence vote could come by Wednesday night. Under parliamentary rules, the vote must be taken by Friday night.

Girl's Death Apparently Was Natural

Lancaster County Atty. Paul Douglas said Monday that the death of Kathy Meyerpeter, 16, was apparently due to natural causes but that further microscopic tests are being made.

He said that until the microscopic findings are reported his office is not considering the case closed.

The girl died Sunday evening at 4306 Madison Ave., where she was baby-sitting with the children of jockey Mervin Kruger, police said.

Her body was discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Kruger when they returned home about 11:30 p.m.

Police said a neighbor woman had visited the girl at 8:30 p.m. and when she left advised her to lock the doors. The doors were still locked at 11 p.m. when the Krugers returned home to find the girl dead, police said.

Miss Meyerpeter was living temporarily at the State Fairgrounds where her family is connected with the current racing season.

Rusk Would Respect Confidence Of Others

Washington (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, mentioned in a controversial magazine article by a former presidential aide, said Monday that when others "deal with me on the basis of confidence, that confidence will be respected."

Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., a White House assistant under the late President John F. Kennedy, wrote last week that Kennedy before his death had planned to replace Rusk as secretary of state. Kennedy wanted a more vigorous, decisive State Department, Schlesinger said.

Rusk told a news conference Monday he would not comment "on these particular remarks or similar remarks that might be made while I am in public office."

When Time Comes

"When the time comes some day for me to leave office," Rusk declared, "my papers will be in the files of the Department of State or in the Kennedy or Johnson Libraries. I shall take none with me."

Rusk said he will record "my own impressions" of the main events during his service, and these will be made public only when the presidential papers are released in future years.

"But my associates in government and my colleagues abroad can rest on the assurance that when they deal with me on the basis of confidence, that confidence will be respected," he said. "And that is all I am going to say on that subject from now on."

Schlesinger's statements were contained in excerpts in Life Magazine from his forthcoming book about Kennedy.

Rusk, a Kennedy appointee, defended State Department officials generally and stated that the department's job is not to dramatize and make headlines.

Tradition-Ridden

Schlesinger had said Kennedy found the department a

No Arrests Made

other white man knock a white demonstrator to the ground.

No arrests were made. State patrolmen stood on the edge of the sidewalk and kept the entrance to the store clear.

Reporting the brisk sale of pistol permits, Horne said 30 permits to carry pistols have been issued since Whatley was gunned down from a passing car Wednesday night. He said 16 were sold to white day. Only six permits were issued in June.

"People here are going to defend themselves and their rights," said Horne, but he emphasized that he thought the pistols would be used only for defensive purposes.

Arrests Start It

Massive street demonstrations began in Americus after four Negro women were arrested July 20 when they tried to vote in a line for whites only. They were ordered released by a federal judge.

When a second group of demonstrators reached the picketed grocery, district manager Carl Fox was asked if there were any Negroes on the staff. He said all the stores in the chain had Negro employees. He added that two worked in the Americus store.

Demonstrators asked if they mopped.

"Yes, they mop," said store manager T. L. Wilson, "just like the white boys do."

Fox said his only interest was that the front of the store be kept clear.

Six juveniles were among the arrested pickets. The others included Dobbs Wiggins, 18-year-old Americus Negro, Gregory S. Moore, a 20-year-old white man from Jacksonville, Fla., and Herbert Lamb Gage Jr., 21-year-old white resident of Huntsville, Ala.

In Atlanta, Gov. Carl Sanders urged civil rights leaders not to bring in outsiders "to stir up emotions and perhaps cause more violence."

He commented: "An invitation for continued violence is being sponsored by so-called apostles of good will. Responsible Georgians can solve their own problems."

Sanders said police protection at Americus, both by the city police department and state patrolmen, had been excellent.

"Any report that there has not been adequate police protection is erroneous," he declared.

Nearly 140 state troopers, with strict instructions to tolerate no violence, are on duty in Americus.

U.S. Politicians Watch New York Race Closely

By JOHN MORGANTHALER
New York (AP)—It's a strange and confused campaign for mayor in this teeming, troubled city. The citizenry isn't much aroused yet, but the nation's politicians are watching closely.

In a city that is more than 3 to 1 Democratic, the polls give the edge at this early date to a Republican, John V. Lindsay, a rising young congressman anxious to crisscross the national political scene.

Three-term Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner is bowing out—possibly to run next year for governor against the Republican incumbent, Nelson Rockefeller—and the city Democrats have split into four warring camps.

The candidates for the Democratic nomination—none widely known before the campaign—are Paul R. Screvane, Abraham Beame, William F. Ryan and Paul O'Dwyer.

President Johnson and Sen.

Robert F. Kennedy are keeping hands off until after the Sept. 14 primary. Wagner says he will endorse somebody at the proper time, and everybody expects it to be Screvane.

Lindsay casts himself as the underdog.

Another factor, of unknown proportions, is the candidacy of William F. Buckley Jr., 39, editor of the National Review and candidate of the Conservative Party, a group which splintered from the GOP. Buckley denies that he entered the race to defeat Lindsay because he refused to support Barry Goldwater last year.

Offsetting Buckley, Lindsay won the endorsement of the Liberal Party, a Democratic splinter group dominated by labor unions. Both the Conservative and Liberal Parties exist only in New York.

Lindsay also has the endorsement and financial backing of Rockefeller, and the important support of Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

The lanky, handsome congressman has been campaigning hard since May 14. He is staging a nonpartisan "fusion" campaign, the only chance a Republican has. The political strategy succeeded for the late Fiorello La Guardia, the last Republican mayor, who served three terms ending in 1945.

As running mates, Lindsay has Timothy Costello, the Liberal Party's state chairman, and Milton Mollen, a Democrat who resigned as housing administrator for Wagner.

With a Kennedy-like campaign technique, Lindsay mixes athletic good looks, a handsome family, humor and intellectual charm. He has appeared in white tie, suits, shirt sleeves, swim suits, on foot and horseback. He's done the twist, a Greek folk dance and some spring-board dives. Lindsay started out flailing away at Wagner, his supposed opponent, whose popularity was slipping in a rash of crime, racial trouble, air pollution, drought and money shortages.

But on June 11, Wagner announced he wouldn't run, fulfilling a promise made to his late wife, he said. His popularity immediately rose, and took on new luster July 26 with his marriage to blonde, blue-blooded Barbara Cavanaugh.

With Wagner out and the Democrats in disarray, Lindsay pulled a coup by getting the Liberal Party nod. It had been sure to go to Wagner.

By July 23, the Lindsay camp was promising to continue the "warm, humanitarian" administration of Wagner, and it was the Democrats who were trying to disown the old administration.

The Democratic contenders are:

—Screvane, 50, in city employ for 29 years, rising from garbage man to become City Council president and Wagner's right-hand man. He has organization backing in Manhattan, Queens and Staten Island, and lately has picked up some support from the reform wing of the party.

Beame, 59, comptroller under Wagner but sharp critic of his fiscal policy, who has been endorsed by some Wagner opponents—Charles Buckley of the Bronx, Adam Clayton Powell of Harlem and Stanley Steingut of Brooklyn.

—Ryan, 43, a Manhattan congressman from the reform wing, who says Screvane and Beame are both backed by different sets of bosses, and calls them "Tweedledum and Tweedledee."

—O'Dwyer, 57, Irish-born brother of a former mayor, and a councilman-at-large from Manhattan, competing with Ryan for the reform vote, but claiming wide backing for his labor union and civil rights activities outside the reform movement.

GOP Dignitaries Due At Ceremony Honoring Ross

Omaha (AP)—National Republican Chairman Ray Bliss will head a list of speakers Tuesday night at a testimonial dinner honoring Nebraska National Committeeman Donald R. Ross.

Ross has represented Nebraska on the national committee since January, 1958. He is a former mayor of Lexington, Neb., and former U.S. attorney in Omaha.

Other speakers will include Nebraska Senators Hruska and Curtis.

Bliss arrives at 2 p.m. Tuesday for his first official visit to Nebraska since becoming national chairman in April.

Liquor, Beer Permits Taken Away 10 Days

Lancaster District Judge William Hastings Monday signed orders stipulating that the retail package liquor license held by Richard L. and Susan A. Stoehr which is now S & M Inc. and the retail beer license of Ralph E. and Donna Jean Beccard each be suspended for 10 days beginning Aug. 7.

The suspensions, in effect, uphold the Nebraska Liquor Control Commission's ruling that the retailers were selling liquor and beer wholesale without a wholesaler's license to East Hills Supper Club.

The retailers had appealed the ruling which suspended each of them for 21 days.

Leadership Of Super-Gang Linking Mafia, U.S. Cosa Nostra Smashed

Palermo, Sicily (AP)—Italian authorities announced Monday they had smashed the leadership of an international super-gang linking the Sicilian Mafia and the American Cosa Nostra.

A series of lightning pre-dawn police raids from Bologna in north Italy to Taormina in eastern Sicily preceded the announcement and marked a new chapter in the war against the international underworld.

Police on both sides of the Atlantic had long talked of ties between the centuries-old Mafia and the postwar Cosa Nostra. But never before had authorities claimed enough evidence of such links to obtain arrest warrants.

Luciano Heir

The Palermo public prosecutor issued 14 warrants, and the police raids promptly netted 10 suspects—including the reputed head of the Mafia and an Italian-American once rumored to be Charles "Lucky" Luciano's heir. All 14 were born in Italy, with eight having U.S. backgrounds.

International police were asked to help find the other four suspects, three described as U.S. citizens.

The police raids were planned minutely. At a pre-dawn zero hour the heavily armed police teams swept into action simultaneously. At a Bologna eye clinic they picked up Giuseppe Genco Russo, 72, long reputed to be the head of the Mafia and a power in the international underworld.

Asleep On Farm

Outside Rome they moved in on a villa owned by Frank "Three Fingers" Coppola, 75, a Sicilian who was deported in 1948 from the United States. He had been active in Kansas City. But Coppola, once said to be Luciano's heir, was not at home. His wife and children said they did not know his whereabouts. The authorities traced him to a nearby farm, where they found him in bed asleep.

Seven other suspects were picked up in other areas. Among the seven were three others who had lived in the United States.

The 14 were charged with associating to commit crime. Various individual allegations against them included narcotics, currency and tobacco smuggling, and bombings.

But police seemed to be more interested in the broad ramifications of the gang, rather than in specifics. Francesco Intorisi, Palermo police chief, said some of the 14 were involved in some way in the 1957 underworld convention at Appalachi, N.Y. He said several "pre-conventions" were held in Palermo police chief, said some of the 14 were involved in some way in the 1957 underworld convention at Appalachi, N.Y. He said several "pre-conventions" were held in Palermo prior to the Appalachi huddle. None of the 14 named, however, appeared on the New York state police list of 58 at Appalachi.

Police said their investigation showed how the Mafia and Cosa Nostra exchanged plans, men and equipment. It was described as a two-way traffic, with the Mafia taking up some of the modern American rackets.

Police said the super-gang was made up of gangs linked in a sort of "federal pact," with the 14 named its leaders.

Root, Cooperation

Police said that it was not a case of the Italian-American underground being a subsidiary of the Mafia, but of the two undergrounds stemming from the same root and cooperating.

Police said it was difficult to crack the gang because it had a powerful and efficient organization that helped its members elude police. But authorities said they were able to watch a number of the U.S. gang members who came to Sicily as "tourists" to contact local underworld figures.

The police report on the super-gang began taking shape during an anti-Mafia police crackdown launched in 1963 after several police were killed in a Palermo bombing.

But Schlesinger said over the weekend that "I could care less" about such criticism, adding: "If people want to make accurate and fair judgments of the book, they ought to do so on the basis of the book which will be published in November."

Americus Pistol Rise Is Warning

An ordinary is a high county administrative official.

The Sumter County board of jury, considering indictments against two young Negroes charged with murdering a white man, recessed without making any presentments. The jury will meet again Wednesday.

Eddie Will Lamar and Charles Lee Hopkins, both 21, are charged in the shooting death of Andrew A. Whatley, a 21-year-old Marine enlistee.

About 150 demonstrators marched the 1½ miles from a Negro church to the Courthouse Monday night and returned without incident.

Earlier, more than 20 pickets were arrested outside a grocery when the manager pointed out that the sidewalk in front of his store is private property. Police arrested them on charges of trespassing.

Parliament Fights Stopped By Police

Athens, Greece (AP)—Police rushed into parliament Monday night and broke up fist fights between opposing deputies during a debate on a confidence motion for Premier George Athanasiadis Novas' government.

While bedlam reigned inside parliament, about 2,000 backers of George Papandreu, ousted by King Constantine July 15 in a dispute over control of the armed forces, shouted antigovernment slogans outside.

Papandreu had prevented a quorum Friday night when the government sought its first vote of confidence. But he sent his Center Union deputies back Monday night, hoping to hasten debate and overthrow the government. A vote on the confidence motion is expected later this week.

As Athanasiadis Novas read his government's policy statement, Papandreu's deputies shouted and banged their desk tops. Speaker Emmanuel Baklatzis called repeatedly for order, but to no avail.

The premier continued and finished reading his government's statement.

The free-for-all began when the National Radical Union leader, Panayiotis Cannelopoulos, a rightist, delivered a blistering speech against Papandreu. Cannelopoulos noted that Papandreu's Center Union Party backers were present but not Papandreu himself. He said the former premier's refusal to attend and hear the debate was "an admission of guilt" in the crisis that has rocked Greece since mid-July.

Blocks away from the parliament building, several thousand leftists attended a memorial service in a downtown theater for Sotirios Petroulas, a student killed in Athens street rioting following Papandreu's fall.

Speaker Baklatzis adjourned parliament until Tuesday night after five hours of debate. Some deputies said the confidence vote could come by Wednesday night. Under parliamentary rules, the vote must be taken by Friday night.
